

U.S. PREPARED TO DO PART AT DISARM MEET

Nation Ready to Make Real Sacrifice in Cutting Down Naval Craft
LAYS CARDS ON TABLE
Hopes That British and Japanese Will Offer to Meet Proposals

Washington—The United States government is prepared to make a real sacrifice in cutting down its auxiliary naval craft. Ambassador Hugh Gibson, chairman of the American delegation to the armament conference which opens at Geneva, Switzerland, on Monday, has been instructed in his first statement to indicate the far reaching character of America's proposal to reduce naval armaments.

Just as Secretary Hughes in the autumn of 1921 startled the world by his announcement of what the United States was willing to do in limiting construction of battleships, so today America is ready to lay all the cards on the table face up and accept a reduction in the tonnage of cruisers, submarines and auxiliary craft generally.

Informal exchanges of views between London, Washington and Tokio have been going on for several weeks so that the American proposal will not come altogether as a surprise. The British and Japanese are known to be willing to accept a reduction in the number of new vessels but the exact formula for limitation is not yet a matter of agreement. There are high hopes here, however, that the British and Japanese will concur with the viewpoint of the United States—that America will be able without difficulty to accept such changes as Britain and Japan may offer.

EXPECT GOOD RESULTS
Confidence that some tangible results will be obtained prevails here because it is realized that neither Japan nor Great Britain would have accepted invitations to the conference unless they were prepared to be in advance some basis for mutual agreement.

While the forthcoming conference differs in many respects from that held in Washington six years ago it is an open question whether the absence of the French and Italians may permit in the end a better procedure. This time the decision is 1927 that the three big naval powers made their informal agreement in advance as to how the conference should be conducted and an effort was made in the opening conferences to bring Great Britain, Japan and the United States into concord without worrying about the French and Italians. There was a feeling among the latter two that they had not been consulted sufficiently whereas the truth was the American delegates realized an agreement between the three big powers was essential before the ratio of naval strength suggested for France and Italy could be worked out.

DEPENDS ON 3 POWERS
This year, when the three big powers have reached an agreement, they will not be bound by any views of the French and Italians because the latter have declined to be represented officially. It is expected, however, that every effort will be made to keep France and Italy informed so that when the three powers have reached an agreement, the inclinations of France and Italy will be to go along with the relative strength which the conference will indicate should be followed by other powers. In other words, the hope is that France and Italy will not embark on any program which will upset the equilibrium as between Great Britain, Japan and the United States.

It has been suggested that there may be a conditional clause in the three-power agreement requiring further conference and revision in the event that France or Italy should undertake any construction program which would require Great Britain to consider seriously an enlargement of the number of her smaller naval vessels. The three powers do not feel therefore that the explicit concurrence by France or Italy is at this time essential, even though to be sure diplomacy will attempt to persuade France and Italy to help along the movement for world peace by reducing as well as limiting naval armaments.

POPE CREATES TWO NEW CARDINALS IN EUROPE

Rome—(AP)—Monsignor Van Rooy, who succeeded the late Cardinal Mercier, Belgium, priest in the world's war as archbishop of Malines, was created a cardinal by Pope Pius at a secret consistory Monday morning.

Monsignor Honda, archbishop of Posen (Poland) also was raised to the cardinalate and the pontiff confirmed the appointments of several new archbishops and bishops.

Pope Pius Monday morning paid tribute to the Catholic episcopacy of the United States for its aid in making known the true situation of Catholics in Mexico. He gave expression to his keen sorrow over the tribulations of the Chinese people which, he said, resulted from doctrines imported from abroad.

SUPREME COURT OF WISCONSIN DISBARS EX-JUDGE O. A. STOLEN

Madison—(AP)—Ole A. Stolen, former judge of the Dane county superior court, has been disbarred as a practicing attorney in Wisconsin, the state supreme court announced Monday.

His disbarment came as a result of hearings conducted by the court investigating charges that the former judge borrowed money from alleged bootleggers. Under the court's ruling, he cannot make application for reinstatement to the state bar until five years have elapsed.

The Dane County Bar association's grievance committee first started action against Mr. Stolen at a series of John Doe hearings, at which it was revealed that the superior judge had borrowed money from bootleggers on whom he was later to pass judgment. Mr. Stolen did not deny the loans, but contended that they in no way affected his judgment against the bootleggers when they were brought before him. When the case was taken to the supreme court by the grievance committee, Mr. Stolen resigned as judge, but the disbarment proceedings did not end.

THREE POWERS HOPE TO COMPLETE WORK TO BEGUN IN AMERICA

Object of Naval Disarmament Conference to Settle Issues Left Unsolved

Geneva—(AP)—The object of the three-power naval conference, which opens Monday, is to complete the work of limitation of naval strength begun at the five-power conference in Washington. There a treaty was signed in 1922 limiting the tonnage of battleships for the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, limiting also the tonnage of aircraft carriers and limiting the size of individual cruisers to ten thousand tons. The Washington treaty laid down the now famous ratio of 5-5-3 and resulted in the scrapping of a large number of battleships.

By the treaty, Great Britain was permitted to have a total battleship tonnage of 525,000 tons, the United States the same tonnage, Japan, 315,000, and France and Italy each 175,000 tons. The giving to France and Italy of a lower ratio than to the others caused in later years considerable criticism, especially in France, where it was openly stated that France could never accept a similar ratio for auxiliary craft, destroyers and submarines, which are to be treated at tomorrow's conference.

FIX MAXIMUM TONNAGE
The Washington treaty fixed 35,000 tons standard displacement as the maximum tonnage of each capital ship to be constructed by the signatories, and fixed the maximum calibers of guns aboard at 16 inches. The total tonnage for aircraft carriers was placed at 135,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain; 81,000 tons for Japan; and 60,000 tons each for France and Italy.

Although the treaty fixed the maximum tonnage of individual cruisers at 10,000 tons, it left open the question of whether the three powers would agree to a further reduction in the number of cruisers.

THREE CHILDREN DIE OF POISONED FOOD

Half of Children at Springfield Redemption Home Affected After Meal

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Food poisoning, striking suddenly at the babies of the Springfield redemption home, had taken three lives Monday, with a fourth infant believed dying and five others seriously ill. Either breakfast food or cream puffs, served at the Sunday morning meal, is blamed for the illness which affected half the children at the home.

The home matron and the housekeeper also became ill, but their condition was not regarded as alarming. Two of the dead are Rose Ann Norbert and Betty Bergman, both 2 years old. Another child, about 2 years old, died at the hospital to which he had been taken. The boy, who had been taken home shortly after the illness appeared in epidemic form. The Norbert child died at a hospital to which she was taken by Mrs. Henrietta Hunt, superintendent of the home. Five children remained under physicians' care at the home. They were all under four years old.

CLAIM DENVER CANNOT STAGE BALLOON RACES

Denver—(AP)—The committee in charge of raising funds for the James Gordon Bennett International Balloon races here has informed the National Aeronautical association that Denver is "financially unable" to stage the event, it was revealed Monday. The races were scheduled for Sept. 10 and 25, 1927 had been pledged for financing the affair. Six additional entries, requiring raising additional money was considered too formidable a goal by the finance committee.

BYRD EXPECTS TO START FOR PARIS TUESDAY

Flight Will Be Made to Study Storms and Fogs Which Menace Airmen

New York—(AP)—Dusk Tuesday may see Commander Richard E. Byrd's monoplane America start on its scientific flight to Paris. Unlike his predecessors, Lindbergh and Chamberlin, who left Roosevelt field, Long Island, shortly after dawn, Commander Byrd is considering a departure with his three flying companions at about 6 o'clock in the evening. He believes his plane thereby would reach New Foundland with the dawn and Paris before sunset of the next day.

East winds and local rain storms along the north Atlantic seaboard and a low pressure area from New Foundland to the Irish coast indicated a hop of would not be wise before Tuesday, Byrd said Sunday night.

WILL STUDY STORMS

His flight, he explained, will be an effort to learn the secrets of the storms, winds and fogs of the Atlantic ocean as they affect aerial navigation. Byrd stated a scientific station would be established this summer by Prof. W. F. Hobbs of the University of Michigan, on the Greenland ice cap which is believed to be 1,500 miles long and 500 wide and "has undoubtedly some effect on the north Atlantic weather."

A Tufts college honorary degree of master of science was conferred Monday upon Commander Byrd. Lieut. Berndt Balchen, former Norwegian Naval officer, has been chosen as the fourth member of the crew on its trans-Atlantic flight.

Lieutenant Balchen, who is a close friend of Commander Byrd, is an expert pilot navigator and mechanic. In addition to Commander Byrd and Lieut. Balchen, the America's crew will consist of Bert Acosta, pilot, and Lieut. George O. Noville, radio engineer and alternate pilot.

MURDER PLOT IS PROBED IN EAST

Wealthy Retired Farmer's Daughter Charged With Conspiracy Against Family

New Brunswick, N. J.—(AP)—The faith of George F. Morse, 84, wealthy retired farmer, in his 40-year-old daughter, Bessie, Monday remained unshaken despite her arrest on a charge of conspiracy to kill three members of her father's family. Miss Morse was freed on bail of $7,000 furnished by her father, after her arrest Saturday by detectives who had posed as gunmen in perfecting an alleged death plot with her maid, Mamie Todd, a Negroess. The maid, who is 21 years old, had been with the Morse family for 15 years.

Authorities said the conspiracy was originally directed against the father and mother, but was later centered against Miss Morse's sister, Mrs. Grace Day, her husband Elmer and their son Robert. Officials said the first plan was abandoned because of the death of Mrs. Morse two months ago and because the daughter felt her father would not live much longer.

The police believe that Miss Morse feared her father estate, estimated at more than $100,000, would be left to her sister and brother-in-law. Morse characterized the alleged plot as "a frame-up, pure and simple." "It is utterly ridiculous," said the accused woman. "The story must have come from the imagination of my maid."

WRIGHT EXPECTS CASH SETTLEMENT WITH WIFE

Madison—(AP)—After two years of marital difficulties, Frank Lloyd Wright, architect, expects a cash settlement with his estranged wife, Mariam Noel Wright. Such a settlement, he believes, will be made soon, possibly Monday following a conference with his attorneys and a local law firm representing Mrs. Wright. It is expected to be the final conference of a series held with a view to reaching a settlement.

WEYAUWEGA LIGHT CO. DECISION IS UPHELD

Madison—(AP)—A decision of Judge Henry Graess in Brown circuit court, granting $12,394.97 to Allan Classon for assisting in the sale of an electrical plant, was sustained by the supreme court Monday.

D. E. Reese, retired, and George W. Moody his son-in-law, owners of the Weyauwega Electric Light Co., Wauwau, Wis., appealed the decision of Judge Henry Graess' Brown circuit court giving Allan Classon $12,394.97 for assisting in sale of the plant. Classon of an Oconto law firm, negotiated with electric light and power companies in and around Appleton as the agent for Reese and Moody on a commission basis, for sale of the company, but the appellants sold their firm to a Green Bay power and light utilities group. Classon sued for $11,666.66 which he claimed was his agreed commission plus interest from Sept. 1, 1925, when the sale was made. The court made the $12,394.97 award and Reese and Moody appealed.

BADGERS READY TO CARRY ON BATTLE AGAINST FLOODS

All - Wisconsin Conference Will Map Out Program at Milwaukee Meeting

Milwaukee—(AP)—Utilizing the treasury surplus for relief of the thousands in the devastated flood district of the south was urged Monday by two speakers at the opening session of the state conference called to determine Wisconsin's thought as to the best method of flood control and conservation. Congressman Victor Berger of Milwaukee, lone Socialist in the house of representatives, and Mrs. John Martin Green Bay, sole woman speaker at the recent flood control conference in Chicago, urged that the federal government use the millions in the treasury for this purpose.

Milwaukee—(AP)—Destruction of forests, unwise drainage of lowlands and the diversion of water from Lake Michigan into the Mississippi river, as influences in aggravating flood conditions in that river and tributaries, will be emphasized at the all-Wisconsin Flood Control and Conservation conference which opened Monday morning.

A plan for presenting the conservation program for flood control will be formulated at this conference and steps will be taken to present it at hearings before United States engineers on flood control in the Mississippi valley.

The position the conference is expected to take is thus stated by the secretary of the general committee, Ernest Bruncken, secretary of the Milwaukee Harbor commission. "Control of floods in the Mississippi river and its tributaries can be accomplished only by united action under the authority of the federal government, instead of by local endeavors, assisted by the government, through advice and cooperation."

"All factors which have increased the flood dangers immeasurably since the settlement of the country can and must be controlled by the action of federal, state and local authorities, according to a unified system, and with the federal government as the ultimate arbiter in cases of disagreement."

"Among these factors are, especially: The denudation of forest lands; indiscriminate drainage of lowlands; the resulting lowering of the water table throughout the country; diversion of water from the lake Michigan watershed into the Mississippi watershed, with its resulting injury to navigation."

Monday forenoon was principally devoted to registration and other preliminary registration.

HOSPITAL CONGRESS OPENS IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—With many of the world's foremost hospital organizations and medical figures in attendance, the Milwaukee auditorium was transformed into a huge hospital Monday with the opening of the Hospital Congress of North America and the twelfth annual convention of the Catholic Hospital association of the United States and Canada.

The congress is the first attempt in the history of the modern hospital to present an actual working clinical hospital exposition. New standards of hospitalization are predicted as the result of the congress which will continue through June 24.

WOMAN WINS $5,000 FROM HOTEL COMPANY

Madison—(AP)—An award of $5,000 to Mrs. Lena Gibson, Green Bay, from the Beaumont Hotel company, was sustained by the state supreme court Monday.

ONE DEAD, TWO INJURED WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Clintonville Boy Dies Here from Injuries Received at Marion

One young man is dead and two others are in St. Elizabeth hospital as a result of an airplane accident at Marion about 5:30 Sunday afternoon. The pilot of the plane in which they were riding lost control of the machine and it crashed to the ground from a height of about 150 feet.

Claire Dieter, 19, Clintonville, died at 8:30 Sunday night at St. Elizabeth hospital from his injuries.

Dieter's skull was fractured, both legs were broken in two places, his chest was smashed and his body was cut and bruised.

Tellock had had fractures of the arm, a dislocated elbow, abrasions and bruises about the body and face and a possible fracture of the spine. The attending physician stated that it was impossible to determine whether the spine was fractured until X-ray pictures taken Sunday night had been developed. Tellock has a chance to recover.

Lang, the pilot of the plane, escaped with the least serious injuries, receiving only severe cuts and bruises about the body and head.

Dieter is a graduate of Clintonville high school, and was employed at the Four Wheel Drive Auto company in Clintonville as a time-keeper. Tellock is an employee at the Auto Service Sales company in Clintonville.

Tellock and Dieter were members of a party of six young men who drove from Clintonville to Marion to ride in the plane. Other members of the party were James Kuester, Ivan Stuchman, Ray Abrahamson and Urban Pieper.

Lang's plane was a new machine, which he had been operating only a short time. Lang's only recent "learning to fly" after the accident he is reported to have told the attending physician that he lost control of the plane and could not make a good landing.

MOTOR QUI RUNNING

Dieter and Tellock entered the plane about 5:15 and went into the air with Lang who had been taking up passengers all afternoon from a field on the Henry Hehman farm about two miles east of Marion. They were in the air 10 or 15 minutes when the motor became quiet and the plane started to come down. When it was about 150 feet from the ground, it turned into a nose dive and crashed. The plane landed in a field on the Fred Liskow property just inside the Marion village limits, about a mile and a half from the field where the ride started.

The three young men were taken to a doctor's office in Marion where first aid was given and they were placed on a train for Appleton and arrived here about 8 o'clock. Dieter died half an hour later.

Dieter survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dieter, Clintonville, one sister, Lucille, Clintonville, and one brother, George who is in the United States navy.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the home in the village with the Rev. Bernhard in charge. Interment will be in Graceland cemetery.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MISSING FRENCHMEN

St. Johns, N. F.—(AP)—The monoplane Jeanette, in command of Major F. Sidney Cotton, engaged in the Xungesser-Coll search, landed Sunday afternoon on Quidi Vidi lake on the outskirts of St. Johns. Major Cotton stated he had been over a considerable stretch of country between Come-by-chance, in Placentia bay, and Fort Blanford in Bonavista bay, but had found no trace of the missing aviators. The Jeanette d'Arc left Quidi Vidi soon after landing to continue the search further west.

Lindbergh Tired, Given Needed Chance To Rest

St. Louis—(AP)—Sheltered from the clamor of roaring crowds, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh rested Monday afternoon one month of praise following his trans-Atlantic flight in the Spirit of St. Louis. The conqueror of the north Atlantic air is tired. Sunday night when 12,000 of his fellow citizens crowded the Municipal theatre he sat through the first act of Princess Pat and then left, but not before he had been coaxed to appear for a moment upon the stage.

Monday was the first that he was not at the deck of a welcoming committee, the first when he was not a part of elaborately planned ceremonies, the first when he was able to sit down from the spotlight of undivided public attention into that of "Slim" Lindbergh, flier and son of a beloved mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh.

With the possible exception of the week spent by Colonel Lindbergh on the cruiser Memphis which brought him from France, he has had little time for rest. The plea of a St. Louis newspaper that he be given time to "fiddle with his beloved Spirit of St. Louis" or lie upon his back upon a shady lawn, or roost on a rail fence somewhere, was the spirit evinced in his home town Monday.

President Hears Youth Preach His First Sermon

Rapid City, S. D.—(AP)—Eager to partake of all the novel experiences which this western country has to offer, President Coolidge Monday entered into his second week in the Black Hills, convinced that the summer White House was in an area exactly to his liking.

He has fished successfully in its mountain streams, hunted over the romance of its pine-covered hills, the thrill that an easterner receives from being dressed in a ten gallon hat, and he has heard from a 20-year old boy a simple statement as to why people should go to church.

Perhaps more than any other, the president's first Sunday in the Black Hills was an experience he long will remember, but the day was hardly less unusual for himself than it was for Rolf Lium, the big blonde youth, who preached the first sermon of his life Sunday, before the president of the United States.

The youth stood behind the pulpit of the Hermosa Congregational church and looked out upon a gathering as typical of this western country as was the little white building set upon the prairie for simple living folks who worship God in a simple way.

Lium, who came to Hermosa a few days ago to earn enough money, as

U. S. Airmen Are Guests Of Austrian Government

Vienna—(AP)—President Hainisch of the Austrian republic, Monday conferred upon Charles D. Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine the republic's highest order of merit, the "Goldenes Ehrenzeichen der Republik" in recognition of their trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Germany.

Vienna—(AP)—Having completed a fortnight's stay on German soil after their momentous trans-oceanic flight from New York, Clarence D. Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine were guests Monday of the Austrian government.

As Chamberlain and Levine stepped from their plane Columbia on arrival from Munich Sunday night, thousands of Viennese were gathered to greet them, notwithstanding a pouring rain. The Americans were surrounded and carried on the shoulders of admirers.

Their wives came a few minutes later as passengers in one of half a dozen escorting planes.

After shaking hands with the cabinet ministers and other officials, the party was driven around the field through dense crowds, the band meanwhile playing the American anthem.

It was the second great welcome of the day for the airmen, for when they arrived at Munich from Berlin in the afternoon all of Bavaria apparently had turned out in their honor. The fact that their visit to Munich was delayed a week had no effect on the Bavarian enthusiasm.

After a long series of functions in Vienna, during which they will be received by Chancellor Seipel and President Hainisch, the airmen will visit Prague, Budapest, Warsaw, Zurich and Paris. Lack of time made it necessary for them to decline innumerable invitations to visit other cities and towns in all parts of Europe.

They have made provisional arrangements to sail for home on the Levantian July 12.

STATION MASTER DIES OF INJURIES

J. D. Fowler of Manawa Is Hit by Locomotive Cross-beam

Funeral services for J. D. Fowler, 67, station agent of the Green Bay and Western railroad at Manawa, who was fatally injured when he was struck by a freight train Saturday morning, will be conducted at the home at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon, in charge of the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodges.

Mr. Fowler, who served the railroad continuously for 39 years, walked across the railroad tracks at the station, in front of the approaching freight train. He had reached the opposite side of the tracks, when he was struck by a cross-beam of the locomotive and hurled into the air, landing on his back and head. He died at 1:15 Saturday afternoon.

Survivors are the widow, Mrs. Ellen Fowler, and one son, Robert, the latter of Elkhardt Lake.

MENASHA MAN FINED AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Edward Pendergast Arrested as He Sleeps Over Wheel of His Car

Edward Pendergast, route 1, Menasha, was fined $50 and costs for driving a car while intoxicated by Judge J. Theodore Berg in Municipal court Monday morning.

He also was forbidden to drive for six months. Pendergast was arrested at 7 o'clock Sunday night by Officers Herskorn and Delgen at the corner of W. College-ave and Appleton-st. He ran his car over the curb and fell forward on the steering wheel, according to police.

When the arresting officers arrived at Pendergast's home he had been driving the car and said that a man who had been with him and who had escaped was guilty. The steering wheel was locked but a search of Pendergast revealed it the key in his pockets.

Miron Hendricks of Grand Chute arrested Sunday afternoon on a charge of driving while intoxicated pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge Berg Monday morning. His case was set for Tuesday morning.

Hendricks was arrested in Grand Chute by County Motorcycle Patrolman Lawrence Newland.

George Dapri of Marion arrested Sunday afternoon on a charge of reckless driving was fined $13.50 by Judge Berg. Dapri was arrested in the town of Greenville.

A fine of $13.20 was assessed against Ervin Schroeder, route 5, Appleton on a charge of speeding. Schroeder was arrested by Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Steidl for reckless driving was fined $13.50 by Judge Berg. Dapri was arrested in the town of Greenville.

OLEOMARGERINE LAW IS HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Madison—(AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme court Monday held the state law, restricting the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine unconstitutional, thereby upholding a ruling of the Dane circuit court. Suit was brought by the former dairy and food commissioner of the state against several oleomargarine companies after the lower court had declared the law as discriminatory and in violation of the constitution.

Judge A. C. Hoppmann, presiding judge in the Dane circuit court, upheld the contention of the oleomargarine companies in that the state and sale of butter substitutes were unreasonably arbitrary, oppressive and discriminatory.

The law was passed by the 1925 session of the state legislature and provided a fine and penalty against any person, firm or corporation selling any product or compound which is used as a substitute for butter and which is made by combining with milk cream fats, any oil or fat or oleaginous substance other than milk fat.

JAP TENNIS STAR LOSES MATCH TO FRENCHMAN

Wimbledon—(AP)—Takeichi Hara of Japan, No. 2 in the American National ranking, was eliminated by Pierre Landry of France, in a hard fought match. The score was 4-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1, 6-2. The defeat of Hara by the first ranking French player was the first surprise of the tournament.

Rene LaCoste, who is ranked as the world's foremost player, quickly disposed of the American school boy, Sidney E. Wood, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1. Young Wood, who was a great favorite with the spectators, was cheered repeatedly and was given an enthusiastic send off when he left before his redoubtable opponent.

Watson Asburn, veteran American internationalist, was eliminated by Hans Timmer of Holland, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4.

BRITAIN WOULD DECREASE SIZE OF WARSHIPS

Request Extension of Principles to Cruisers, Destroyers, Submarines

TO RESTRICT TONNAGE

Japan Would Base Auxiliary Strength on Existing Effective Tonnage

Geneva—(AP)—Extension of the 5-5-3 principle of naval strength to cruisers, destroyers and submarines of the United States, Great Britain and Japan was proposed Monday to the three power naval limitation conference by the American delegation.

Opening the conference called by President Coolidge, Ambassador Hugh Gibson, the chairman, proposed that cruisers be limited to tonnage of 250,000 or 300,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain and to 150,000 or 180,000 tons for Japan.

Destroyer total tonnage would be restricted to 200,000 or 250,000 tons for the two larger powers and to 120,000 to 150,000 tons for Japan. Maximum tonnage for American and British submarines would be 60,000 to 90,000 tons with 50,000 to 54,000 tons fixed for Japan.

Reduction in the size of battleships of the future from the present limit of 35,000 tons to under 30,000 tons, was recommended by W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, Great Britain's representative at the conference.

Mr. Bridgeman advocated limiting the size of individual submarines to 1,600 tons. He also suggested making the life of battleships instead of 20 years, and that the three powers waive their rights under the replacement tables agreed upon at Washington.

AMERICAN REACTION
The first American reaction to these proposals was that it would be about a general agreement between the treaty provisions at the Geneva conference which is limited to but three of the Washington signatories—the United States, Great Britain and Japan—with France and Italy represented only by "observers."

Mr. Gibson also said that if it should eventually be possible to reach a general agreement between all naval powers to abolish submarines, the United States would not be unfavorable to its consideration, but that such action in order to be acceptable must be universal.

The American delegate pointed out that President Coolidge had opposed a cruiser building program because of his hope that general limitation would be possible.

Just before presenting the American proposals, Mr. Gibson, who had formally called the conference to order, was elected president.

Admiral Viscount Minoro Saito, speaking for Japan, proposed that auxiliary naval strength should be based on the tonnage existing in existing ships, including those under construction and those authorized, and that "none of the three powers shall, during an agreed period, adopt new building programs or acquire ships for the purpose of increasing naval strength."

TO ACCEPT PROGRAM
Gibson presented his proposal after a brief address in which he presented an expression of gratitude to the powers from President Coolidge and declared that "the United States is prepared to accept a general program providing for as low a total tonnage" as acceptable to the other powers.

He expressed regret that France and Italy were not active participants in the conference and urged Japan and Great Britain who with the United States are the powers "which now lead in naval armaments" to assume "all responsibility for initiating further naval limitation. If we are not prepared to limit," he said, "we could not expect them to do so."

WOULD SCRAP 62,000 TONS
It was understood that under the Gibson proposal the United States would be obliged to scrap approximately 62,000 tons of cruisers and destroyers, mostly to the latter class and 50,000 tons additional upon completion of cruisers now building.

Old ships, virtually obsolete, which the American navy has many, would be scrapped to make room for the new ones. Under the plan, it was expected, that Great Britain, if she completes her present building program, would scrap approximately 35,000 tons of cruisers and Japan 40,000 tons.

While neither Japan nor Great Britain would be required to scrap submarines under the proposal, the U. S. would have an excess of about 3,800 tons of submarines to be scrapped.

SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST RIDING MASTER

Madison—(AP)—The state supreme court Wednesday upheld a ruling of the Milwaukee circuit court, refusing to grant Jerome W. Bradley, Milwaukee riding master, a sum of $150,000 asked in his admission of attack suit against Charles G. Forster, wealthy Milwaukee lumberman, and his wife, parents of Bradley's one-day bride, Emily Forster.

PLAYGROUND LEAGUE LAUNCHED SOFTBALL SCHEDULE ON FRIDAY

Intermediate Group Will Be Formed Monday—Complete Weekly Program

The first softball games in the Appleton playground leagues, since the opening of the grounds on Monday, resulted in wins for the Sixth and Third wards in the Junior league and for the First and Third wards in the senior league. The Junior games were played Friday afternoon and the seniors in the evening.

In the senior league the First ward team beat the Sixth ward, 8-7, the Third ward whipped the Fourth, 7-4, and the Fifth ward team was idle. In the Junior league the Sixth ward defeated the First ward, 19-5, and the Third won from the Fourth, 11-10, while the Fifth was idle.

The leagues have been renamed the Playground Twilight Leagues and three will be formed starting Monday. They will be the present Junior circuit for boys under 12, a new intermediate league for boys from 13 to 15 inclusive, and the old senior league for boys 16 and over.

The program for this week includes bicycle races, horseshoe tournaments, swimming and kickball and softball tournaments for the girls, which have not yet been started. One afternoon of the week, probably Wednesday, Director Joseph Shields will take boys of all playgrounds for a swim in the M. C. A. pool. Junior Director Lawrence Bohon of the Sixth ward is planning a treasure hunt for his boys during the week.

In the bicycle races, preliminaries will be held in each playground during the week and Saturday morning the three best from each grounds will meet in the finals for the city playground championship at Whiting Athletic field. Finals in both the Junior and senior horseshoe pitching tournaments are expected to be held at all grounds during the week.

A feature parade for all boys and girls of the city is being arranged by Director Shields and it will be held in about two weeks. All girls will be asked to bring doll buggies and the boys their pets of all kinds, chickens, rabbits, dogs, cats and others. Bicycles and scooters also will be in the line of

POSTOFFICE GRANTS LEAVES TO VETERANS

Veterans of the Spanish American war employed in postoffices throughout the country will be allowed leaves of absence to attend the national encampment of the United States War Veterans in Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28 to 31 inclusive, notice has been received at the Appleton office. This permission applies to those whose absence from the office would not be a detriment to the service, it was stated.

Such absence will be charged to the employee's annual leave or if necessary, leave without pay may be granted.

The parade will start at Wilson Junior high school and proceed down College Ave. Business men will be asked to donate prizes and these will be awarded to the owners of the best decorated bicycle, the best decorated doll buggy and the most novel pet. The ward which is represented by the most boys and girls also will receive a prize.

Director Shields also plans to have a visiting night soon at which time members of the school board, civic council and city council will be conveyed to the various grounds to see the children in action, what they are doing and how it will benefit them.

Miss Florence Kahn, who will return from Madison, where she has been attending the University of Wisconsin, in a few days will take charge of the First ward girls work, replacing Miss Dorothy Stark. Miss Stark has engaged to serve until Miss Kahn returned to the city.

COUNT 2,841 CARS ON COUNTY ROADS IN TRAFFIC CENSUS

Totals for This Year Show
Decrease of 917 from Last Year

A total of 2,841 motor vehicles passed three different points in the county on Wednesday between 6 o'clock in the morning and 11 o'clock at night it was revealed Saturday morning when the results of the first traffic count for 1927 were announced.

Although the count was taken at three different points this year and at but one last year the total number of cars passing the one point last year was 915 in excess of machines passing the three points this year.

The counts on Wednesday were taken under the supervision of A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner and in compliance with the requirements of the state highway commission.

Counters were stationed at three junctions in the county: State highways 76 and 51, which intersect near Shiocton; State highways 55 and 47 near Black Creek and Federal highway 41 and State highway 55 at Little Chute. The count last year was taken at Federal highway 41 and Lemnawash.

The count at Federal highway 41 and State highway 55 was taken by Robert Henry of Shiocton.

A total of 2,217 machines passed at this junction which was the busiest far of all three where the counts were taken. Mr. Henry divided the count into machines traversing both high-

HOWITZER ARTILLERY ORGANIZED IN STATE

Madison—(P)—Brigadier General Ralph M. Immell, the Adjutant General, Wisconsin, announced last week that a Battalion of Howitzer Artillery, a Regimental Headquarters Battery and Service Battery, all of which are a part of the 121st Field Artillery, has been organized and mustered into ser-ways and the division showed 1,927 of the machines to have travelled the federal highway and 390 the state. Of the 1,927 vehicles on the federal highway, 1,585 were Wisconsin automobiles; 78 foreign automobiles; 160 were light motor trucks; 86 heavy motor trucks; 8 were motorcycles and 7 horse drawn vehicles.

Of the 390 vehicles on the state highway, 309 were Wisconsin automobiles; 8, foreign automobiles; 51 light motor trucks; 11 heavy motor trucks; 1 motorcycle and 10 horse drawn vehicles.

The count at State highways 76 and 54 was kept by Edward Oehner of Shiocton. He did not subdivide the count but considered only the total number of vehicles that crossed the junction of which there was a total of 253.

Of this number 246 were Wisconsin automobiles; 7 foreign automobiles; 20 light motor trucks; 2 heavy motor trucks; 2 motorcycles and 5 horse drawn vehicles.

At State highways 55 and 47 the count was kept by C. V. Fletcher of Shiocton who took the census in the same way as Mr. Oehner. A total of 245 vehicles passed this junction.

There were 165 Wisconsin automobiles, 24 foreign automobiles; 15 light motor trucks, 4 heavy motor trucks, 7 horse drawn vehicles.

The tabulations are to be forwarded to the state highway commission.

NEW SPEED LIMIT WON'T DECREASE COUNTY'S REVENUE

No Special Session of County
Board Deemed Necessary,
Says Lonsdorf

The increase in the speed limit on county roads from 30 to 40 miles an hour as provided for in the new county speed law signed by Gov. Zimmerman Tuesday, will not affect the revenue to be derived by the county from speeders, according to John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, Friday.

The speed limit under the county ordinance is 30 miles an hour and although it is automatically raised to 40 miles by the new state law, speeders can be arrested under the county law when they run in excess of 40 miles and the county will receive the revenue, he pointed out.

The only revenue to be lost under the law will be that which would have been realized from speeders running between 30 and 40 miles.

In commenting on the situation, Mr. Lonsdorf said he saw no reason why a special session of the county board should be called to amend the county ordinance at this time.

The new state law will be effective when it is proclaimed by the governor.

The new driver's law requiring every person who drives a car to have a license will be effective July 1, according to Mr. Lonsdorf.

FILE PLEA FOR CASH BONUS BY JULY 1

Madison—(P)—John F. Mullen, director of the pension, bonus and rehabilitation division of the adjutant general's office here Saturday called attention of World war veterans of the state to expiration of their opportunity to claim cash bonuses. He said: "Attention of all honorably discharged ex-service men, who were residents of the State of Wisconsin at the time of their entry into World war service, is invited to the fact that the time limit for filing applications for the Wisconsin cash bonus expires on July 1, 1927. Claims filed subsequent to that date cannot be paid."

He asked that the veterans communicate with him prior to that date "unless you have already received your bonus."

"The educational bonus also expires on that date unless extended by the present legislature as contemplated in Senate bill 432."

been realized from speeders running between 30 and 40 miles.

In commenting on the situation, Mr. Lonsdorf said he saw no reason why a special session of the county board should be called to amend the county ordinance at this time.

The new state law will be effective when it is proclaimed by the governor.

The new driver's law requiring every person who drives a car to have a license will be effective July 1, according to Mr. Lonsdorf.

HUGE CROWDS AT DEDICATION OF MENASHA CHURCH

Elaborate Program of Services Is Held in Congregational Edifice

Menasha—The auditorium of the new Congregational church was filled to capacity Sunday morning for the dedication services. In the audience were many former Menasha residents. The dedicatory sermon was preached by a former pastor, the Rev. A. E. Leonard, D. D., and the dedicatory prayer was offered by the first ordained pastor of the church, the Rev. H. A. Miner, of Madison, now 97 years old. Mr. Leonard said he wanted to congratulate the members with all his heart on the new building. "I am speaking truthfully when I say it is one of the most beautiful church buildings I have seen anywhere," he declared.

OPENS WITH MUSIC

The program opened with an organ prelude, "The Song of David," followed by a hymn, "The Church of Christ," and then a hymn by the choir. In presenting the keys to W. H. Miner, chairman of the board of trustees, H. A. Northrup, chairman of the building committee, said he was presenting them with a great responsibility and a great work, but that the members could depend on Mr. Miner carrying it on successfully. Mr. Northrup took advantage of the opportunity to thank the committee for their cooperation. He said it had many problems to meet, but that they were met in a kindly spirit.

In his reception of the keys Mr. Miner said Mr. Northrup did not want him to say anything about himself, but he said he would be grateful to him for his work on the new church. "During the summer Mr. Leonard was in Menasha we talked about a new church, but it never got very far," the speaker said. During a subsequent address he inspired the members and donated $50 towards the new project. Then they started raising the money.

Mr. Miner told about his illness and of going to a hospital and about the illness of Mrs. Durham which threw all the work on Mr. Northrup. "If it had not been for Mr. Northrup doing what he did I don't believe we would have had this church," he said.

CHILDREN HELP

The dedication then took place with the audience standing and the pastor reading and the people responding. Dr. H. A. Miner offered a dedicatory prayer and read several paragraphs of scripture relating to the building of the tabernacle and the dedication of the temple in the old times and commented upon them. The offertory solo was sung by Mrs. Susan Murray Pond of Chicago.

The afternoon community service was held at 2 o'clock with the Rev. J. W. Wilson, district deputy, presiding. Mr. Best, the members and the city of Menasha all shared in the commendations of those who brought greetings from the nation and from Chicago and the Wisconsin Association of Ministers.

Dr. H. E. Peabody was the principal speaker and his theme was, "Jesus Christ the Same Yesterday, Today and Forever." In his greetings Dr. Peabody said he was moderator of the Wisconsin State conference and with a touch of humor said he felt the audience was being moderated completely.

The program opened with an organ prelude, "Laudate Dominum," which was followed by a hymn, "The Church of Christ." The dedicatory prayer was offered by the Rev. H. A. Michigan River Paradise
For True Trout Fisherman

BY E. A. CLAFLIN

While it is true that the automobile has been the prime factor in developing our streams and covers, it has also so reduced distance that it is now possible to fish and hunt the remote parts of our big domain. This, formerly, was the privilege of the idle rich only. And so the advent of motor cars is not without its redeeming feature in the realm of sports.

It is easily possible now to travel up into Canada, partake of its wonderful outdoor offerings and return home, all within a few days. For a somewhat long trip let us consider the St. Mary River, at Soo Ste. Marie, Michigan. There is no question but that is the finest region in the world for trout fishing. It is not so far either when you consider that, with an automobile, one can reach there in a day's drive from almost any part of Wisconsin. The distance, at three hundred miles from the center of the state, and these miles pass rapidly when one has an agreeable company.

Once you are there, if you are a fisherman, you are very sure of some

WANT ORDINANCE TO
KEEP WALKS CLEAR

Alderman Demands Enforcement of City Regulation

Neenah—At a short meeting of the city council Saturday evening, the chief subject of discussion was an ordinance prohibiting the placing of merchandise and other obstacles on the sidewalks. Alderman Hans Rasmussen asked why this ordinance was not enforced and stated that if the ordinance did not cover everything he would submit an ordinance which would include popcorn stands, oil rumps and automobiles placed on walks for display. The discussion was closed by referring the matter to the committee on police and health.

Non-intoxicating liquor, licenses were granted to H. R. Larson, Valley Inn, Walter Stuebel, Gus and John, Island Drug company, Albert Hansen, Henry Faus, William Barkham, Stacker and Schmidt and L. A. Harper.

Because she had failed to remove a building on Second-st. which had been declared a nuisance, Miss Edgarton, the owner, was ordered to move it at once or the city will do it. A petition for a walk on Harrison-st. and Third-ave was referred to the committee on walks and the extension of the Smith-st. sewer was approved. The proposition of widening Doty-ave between Church and Walnut-sts. was held up for further investigation. Plans and specifications for this improvement are in the hands of the city engineer.

WANT ORDINANCE TO
KEEP WALKS CLEAR

Alderman Demands Enforcement of City Regulation

Neenah—At a short meeting of the city council Saturday evening, the chief subject of discussion was an ordinance prohibiting the placing of merchandise and other obstacles on the sidewalks. Alderman Hans Rasmussen asked why this ordinance was not enforced and stated that if the ordinance did not cover everything he would submit an ordinance which would include popcorn stands, oil rumps and automobiles placed on walks for display. The discussion was closed by referring the matter to the committee on police and health.

Non-intoxicating liquor, licenses were granted to H. R. Larson, Valley Inn, Walter Stuebel, Gus and John, Island Drug company, Albert Hansen, Henry Faus, William Barkham, Stacker and Schmidt and L. A. Harper.

Because she had failed to remove a building on Second-st. which had been declared a nuisance, Miss Edgarton, the owner, was ordered to move it at once or the city will do it. A petition for a walk on Harrison-st. and Third-ave was referred to the committee on walks and the extension of the Smith-st. sewer was approved. The proposition of widening Doty-ave between Church and Walnut-sts. was held up for further investigation. Plans and specifications for this improvement are in the hands of the city engineer.

DICTATOR OF MOOSE LAUDS MEMBERS ON RECORD OF SERVICE

Tells of Work at Mooseheart and Moosehaven; Banquet
Saturday Night

"I defy any living human being to-day to show me any lodge or other organization which has the record of service to humanity the Loyal Order of Moose has. Are you going to be a booster or a knocker?" Thomas M. Howell, general dictator of the lodge, asked in his address to the Wisconsin State Convention of the order in Appleton Saturday morning.

The speaker dwelt particularly on the work of the order at Mooseheart and Moosehaven, homes supported by the national lodge for those who cannot care for themselves.

"Keep before your eyes the 1,300 children of members of the Moose living at Mooseheart," the speaker said, urging the members to do the best they could to be decent citizens. The work for humanity done by the Moose is one of the great privileges of life and every effort should be expended to keep up the work on the scale it has been started.

"If each member of the lodge gives four-fifths of a cent a day toward the cause of humanity these orphans, widows and men of the Moose who are no longer economically independent, may be supported.

There are 729 boys and 580 girls at the home, 432 families, 36 fathers, and 207 mothers. Residents of the home are fed clothed and educated on the highest plane of any children in America, Mr. Howell asserted.

Of the $3 a year dues contributed by members, $1 is used for extension work and $2 for Mooseheart, he stated.

"Thank God, I was given the opportunity to join this organization which has done so much for humanity," Mr. Howell continued. "There are 187 men and women at Moosehaven. People who are sick, disabled and no longer able to work. Through the efforts of the Moose, they are supported and clothed."

"When small scraps and differences occur in the lodge room, when personal enmities are made, don't let them turn you against the entire lodge and lessen your efforts in helping at Mooseheart and Moosehaven," he urged. He asked the members to remember the vows they made at the altar, beginning, "Thou shalt be the guardian and protector of the household."

A rousing reception was given to Clintonville Friday afternoon as the lodge is a newcomer into the organization. Kenosha which was elected as the city for the next convention, made its first bid Friday afternoon. Mrs. Pat J. Kelly of Chicago, who was scheduled to speak asked to be excused. She is the wife of the dictator of the Chicago lodge who was to speak Saturday afternoon.

A dictators and secretaries luncheon was held at the Conway hotel Saturday noon for men at the convention. Malcolm Giles, assistant supreme secretary was in charge. Women were invited to the senior regents and recorders luncheon at the Conway hotel Saturday noon. It was under the direction of Mrs. Emma Hanke, deputy grand regent.

The junior legion demonstration directed by Mrs. Josephine Ramsey of Milwaukee, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, was cancelled.

Sartorial Students Would Bring Back Knee Breeches

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris—Fifty the ungainly shanks of man if the most recently ordained costumes for his wear become generally popular. All the profound students of his sartorial reformation want to put him in knee breeches, and adorn him with buckles and ruffles.

For the somber male has got to go, according to the decree of the Premier Salon de la Mode Masculine, which has been opened in an art gallery on the rue Dumont d'Urville. He must keep apace with his women folk, make himself brighter and reveal almost as much leg.

CHIC AND COMFY.
The idea of the masculine show-shop, which exhibits numerous sketches, photographs and samples of what should be chic for men, is to conceive the most logical, comfortable and becoming form of masculine attire.

The inspired exhibits, to which several famous artists contributed, suggest many historical subjects, including the American cowboy, the Canadian mounted police, Chinese mandarins, Mexican bandits and Spanish matadors. Also a few suggest something between the lace jabots and cuffs of Louis XIV and the happy haberdashery of the back-alley urchin garbed for a ball game.

SOME ARE FUNNY
Most of the costumes are as funny as might be imagined, but some of them look, for comfort, too good to be true. Mannequins have been put on the streets to exhibit them, but so far the designers of the picturesque costumes have been reluctant to appear in their "convictions."

A comfortable compromise is the plus-four design, with silks and laces substituted for the woollens. These have won many converts among the males so far as sympathetic appreciation is concerned, but none has dared to adopt the proposed fashions.

The chief difficulty in putting the new male styles in practical use comes from the critical attitude of Friends of the Salon de la Mode Masculine. The women come to play, and return to scoff. This, the exhibitors say, is simple jealousy, and they predict that from now on men's fashion shows will become quite as important in matters of dress as those of women.

Already the mere male worm has turned to the extent of wearing hats of delicate pink and vivid purple. Men's umbrellas of striking colors are seen in shop windows, and may soon be carried along the boulevards.

All this agitation looks like a challenge to the woman who has been having her way. Will she always be the only thing of beauty?

MAYOR BOTHERED BY INTERSECTION

Dangerous Condition at Corner Must Be Remedied, He Believes

Something must be done to remedy the system, or rather lack of system, now employed to handle the traffic at the intersection of S. Cherry-st., W. College-ave and N. Richmond-st.

Such is the opinion of Mayor Albert C. Rule. His point is upheld by a number of aldermen.

What the most ideal remedy might be, he is not sure. He is inclined to favor some sort of traffic light, however.

When traffic is heavy, confusion is unavoidable at that corner, the mayor pointed out. The only means now to regulate the flow of traffic is two arterial stop signs and an "Island" in the center of W. College-ave.

"When a motorist traveling west on College-ave reaches the intersection and wishes to turn south on S. Cherry-st., he often times is required to do a veritable Charleston dance with his car before he is able to complete the turn," the mayor said.

"Automobiles entering the avenue from S. Cherry-st do not bother him, but the line of cars going east on the avenue forms an almost impenetrable barricade. The College-ave traffic is augmented at the point by that emerging from N. Richmond-st.

"Motorists who have occasion to pass that corner very often are familiar with the condition there. It is a dangerous intersection and the sooner it is made safer, the easier I'll feel."

A VICIOUS BILL KILLED

We can thank the legislature for at least one thing and that is for its defeat of the proposed constitutional amendment to provide for the initiative and referendum, one of the pet projects of super-progress. The constitution of Wisconsin provides that before an amendment can be incorporated, it must be passed by two successive legislatures and then submitted to ratification by the people. The proposal was passed by the legislature of 1925 and had passed the house in the present session. It failed, however, to get through the senate by an adverse vote of 16 to 9.

As a political theory it makes a plausible appeal to the emotions, but not to reason. The best results in legislation have invariably come from the representative system. Mass action is not only unreliable and poorly considered, but it is apt to be incompetent and impulsive. We see enough of it in the weakness of popular judgment in electing minor and sometimes important public officials, in the indifference to the responsibilities of elections, etc.

The initiative and referendum is one of the myths for bringing government closer to the people. It is one of the fallacious devices for a nearer approach to absolute democracy. It does not, however, work out in practice in a representative government, or in any other government. The people need competent representatives to legislate for them and administer their governments, just as numerous stockholders in a large corporation require the same kind of representation in the conduct of a successful business.

Wisconsin is to be congratulated on having escaped this unwise experiment.

U. S. INTERVENTION

Despite the unfavorable criticism of intervention in the Nicaraguan situation, action by the United States did bring peace and order, the guaranty of a fair presidential election in 1926 and ended a reign of butchery under the guise of military operations. Thus, whatever political significance is ascribed to our intervention the humanitarian angle should not be overlooked—the service which was done an unfortunate people, sick of bloodshed and destruction and anxious to better themselves by going back to work.

It is significant, too, to find, in perusing the report of Colonel Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge, that the people of Nicaragua in general welcomed intervention and that its most enthusiastic advocate, toward the end, was General Moncada, the liberal commander in chief, who had carried the burden of the anti-Diaz offensive. In fact, the only liberals who balked at it were Dr. Sacasa and his civil advisers, who were never seen at the front.

We are accustomed to consider Central American revolutions as of the "comic opera" variety, with many shots fired, but few taking effect. This is not so, however, for in many of these battles the rules of war are the first casualties. From then on no prisoners are taken and the rifle and the machete together wipe out the combatants in wholesale manner. The wounded lie where they fall. First aid is unheard of. The hospital corps is a joke, although a grim one.

The fighting in Nicaragua was savage and ruthless and the people welcomed intervention as a relief from slaughter and misery. Politically, intervention may have raised a nice question of propriety, but from a humane standpoint the action of the United States was fully justified. It is our opinion that it should be politically as well.

RUSSIA'S DOUBLE CODE

Russia has just executed two alleged Polish spies. It is all right for her to engage in persecution, assassination and massacre, but it is all wrong for any other nation to commit these crimes. It is all right for her to engage in conspiracies and propaganda against other nations and to overthrow their governments, but it is all wrong for other nations to desire an end of bolshevism and for individuals to work against it. In other words, the excesses practiced by the soviet have a moral justification, and the efforts of other nations to protect themselves against soviet intrigue is an unwarranted assertion of sovereign power.

Everyone knows what would happen to an individual or official who violated the laws and privileges of asylum in Russia. He would either be executed, thrown into prison or expelled. But communists agitators and conspirators are supposed to be entitled to a free rein to carry on their nefarious business in other lands, even to the extent of plotting revolutions.

No wonder the soviet is embittered by the repulses it has received in China and by its summary treatment in England. And now to cap the climax the League of Nations, through Germany, has notified Russia that her propaganda and intrigues must stop. Incidentally the United States might send a separate note protesting against the wholesale execution of political prisoners by Russia in return for the communists' complaint against the sentencing to death of Sacco and Vanzetti.

ECONOMIC PRESSURE

"Bankrupt because of the suspension of foreign business, and without employment for its workers," said a recent dispatch from China, "Hankow is hard pressed and is depending on communistic propaganda in the fight against Chiang." The quotation is illuminating, and probably represents in a general way the whole Chinese situation as well as the local situation at Hankow. The radical Chinese drove out the British who had a big concession there, with important industries and mercantile houses, employing large numbers of natives. With the foreign capitalists gone, the natives find it impossible to make a living. In yielding to racial prejudices, they got into economic troubles, but who shall say that in the end it will be worth the price?

As matters stand, only by a further appeal to passion, inspired by Russian meddlers, is it possible to arouse the natives now to carry on the fight. War cannot be carried on very long on that basis. The natives must live, somehow. They cannot live on the hatred of foreigners and destruction of foreign business men and they cannot live on Moscow's propaganda. Economic necessity, which is, after all, the determining factor of most wars, will probably bring a different situation there sooner or later. They will drop bolshevism because they cannot make a living by it, and they will tolerate foreign brains and foreign capital because they can make a better living that way.

OLD MASTERS

Clear air and grassy lea.
Stream-song and cattle bell—
Dear man, what fools are we
In prison walls to dwell!

To live our days apart
From green things and wide skies,
And let the wistful heart
But cut and crushed with lies!

Bright peaks!—and suddenly
Light floods the placid dell.
The grass-tops brush my knee:
A road crop it will be,
So all is well!

Oh man, what fools are we
In prison walls to dwell!

ODD NOTES FROM AN ODD CLINIC.
OLD DOCTOR BRADY CONSIDERS A FEW CASES OF OPTIMISM

Here is a case of optimism, but I am unable to ascertain the sex of this one, owing to the quaint signature—something like M. Neutral, but anyway M. Neutral couldn't drink coffee for 34 years because it caused indigestion, distress around the heart, and so on, but recently M. gave up a pair of useless tonsils and on coming out of the anesthetic unguardedly demanded a cup of Java, got it, kept it down, and has been enjoying good old Java daily since he or she forgot the obsession. The country is overrun with pessimists who can't take coffee. I do not advise chloroform for all of these, but an anesthetic does make one forget his tricks for a time.

Case 4.—Lawyer's wife, habitation Minnesota. She has had an operation. Quite a major one, the sort the neurotic pessimists call a "serious" operation—as though the ordinary operations were only a poke. But this Minnesota lady was rather disappointed in her operation. Some of the orders the pessimists had painted seemed to materialize in her case. First, the anesthetic (ether and gas) was rather pleasant. The lady would just as soon have another anesthetic any time. Then she came out quickly and resumed the favorite occupation of the sex, talking, and never developed any shock at all. In the days following the operation her only annoyance was from the irritation of the ether for the frequent bathing. "As to the dire after effects, there were none." The patient was 47 at the time. She failed to faint when the stitches were removed—in fact she was greatly disappointed about that, for she looked forward confidently to having her first experience with fainting. There was no pain at all. This is the usual thing—but if you've ever heard of a pessimist lecture about her operation you will scarcely think so. Finally this Minnesota optimist finishes her wholesome story with this: "I never did expect to have any trouble with the 'change of life' because my mother, now well beyond the four-score mark, had none and she always said it was 'all nonsense'."

In This Case It Is Hereditary
The clerk of the clinic will please make out a membership card for Mrs. H. F. O. of Iowa. She belongs in the Irrefragable Order. This Iowa girl has had half a dozen operations, three of the major, and although an operation is not her idea of having fun she would not hesitate a moment if her doctor should tell her tomorrow that she must have another, though she believes she will never see him again. She would rather have a dozen major operations than live in the misery she formerly endured. Today she is a perfectly healthy woman, wears her skirts and hair short, is nearly 50 years old, plump, jolly, no wrinkles, not enough gray hair to show, permanent wave usually, goes hunting and fishing with her husband, drives a car and rows a boat better than he can, is a good swimmer, dancer and feels so well she wants to shout from the housetops "Thank heaven for the doctors and their operations!" Make the ticket complimentary to Mrs. O. clerk.

Case 6.—Michigan man plagued with a useless gall bladder and a worse than useless appendix (all appendices are useless, but this man's was very troublesome besides), and he procrastinated and suffered much discomfort and disability for some years because darn queer "friends" delighted in telling him these bogy stories:
"You know the graveyards are full of doctor's mistakes."
"Of course you don't know what it is like, being as how you've never taken chloroform or ether—well, it's just like dying twice!"
"As long as you are able to be around at all better not take any chances—an operation is a last resort."

"The man will be crippled for life and will always suffer pain." (This one was submitted by an old fogey doctor.)

Quite a handicap B. A. L. had to overcome, but he did get his life in spite of all the croaking. Had the operation, found it not at all bad, and now he is enjoying life. He says to any one who needs an operation: "Do not put it off—it is not nearly as bad as people tell you. What is a few days of discomfort, anyway, as compared with the great relief you are getting by having the operation?"

Queks, nosum mongers and others who exploit popular ignorance, prejudice and credulity, are chiefly responsible for the pessimistic dream of a cure "without the knife."

Cancer charlatans, the most despicable of them all, make a strong play on the idea of cure "without the knife," though in fact the most horrible and unjustifiable suffering is inflicted upon unfortunate who, in their vain effort to escape the knife, permit such ignorant impostors to apply crude caustics.

These optimists we have presented in today's clinic do not take their ideas second hand or ready-made. They have learned how to think for themselves.

AMAZING CLAIMS FOR FRANCIS
BACON

Everybody knows that some people believe Bacon wrote Shakespeare. It is not so well known that there are a few who believe he wrote practically everything else of the Elizabethan era, that he was even in part responsible for the beautiful English of the King James Bible.

The most amazing book I have read recently is on this subject. It is called "Sir Francis Bacon, Poet, Philosopher, Statesman, Lawyer, Wit," it is by Parker Woodward, and the title page shows that it was published as recently as 1920. The book is so amazing because it takes for granted that there is no doubt about Bacon's authorship of Shakespeare. It does not argue, it merely states what purport to be facts. The author tells about Bacon's authorship of Shakespeare and nearly everything else of the Elizabethan era. He makes his statements with the assurance of one who feels that it is not possible to disbelieve them.

So far as I can make out, the only one of the major or minor writers of the Elizabethan era whose works were not written by Bacon was Ben Jonson. No reason is given why Jonson was expected, but we are left to assume that Jonson wrote his own plays. That leaves just two writers in Elizabeth's reign—Bacon and Jonson.

Here is a partial list of the writers whom Bacon is supposed to have used to hide behind whose works he is supposed to have written: Shakespeare, Marlowe, Edmund Spenser, Burton, "Anatomy of Melancholy," Lyly ("Luphus His England"), Peele, Lodge, Greene, Watson, Gosson, Rich, Mashe, Whitney, Bright, W. B. R. Peckham. Moreover, he published books under such non de plumes as "Immerit," "Kyd," "Anonymous," "Ignote." Parker Woodward seems to have been afraid that a scrap of writing of the Elizabethan age might be attributed to some one else and so claims all the stuff that had no known author for Bacon.

More astonishing than all that is the claim that Gervantes did not write "Don Quixote" but that it was the work of Bacon. It is advanced with all possible assurance that Bacon wrote the great Spanish classic in English, had it translated into Spanish, arranged with Gervantes, a comparatively ignorant Spanish soldier, to pose as author, and then had it translated back into English. I know of no claim more remarkable than that.

Almost as astonishing, next to the claim that Bacon wrote Shakespeare, is the statement, made with complete assurance, that he was the author of "The Faerie Queene." Any one who has tried it knows that it takes nearly a lifetime merely to read it. Bacon is supposed to have written it when he was a comparatively young fellow, doing it on the side while he was engaged in all sorts of political and personal affairs that led with a dullard named Edmund Spenser to pose as the author, Spenser thereupon was shipped to Ireland where he lived the rest of his life and where he died.

At one point in the book it almost looks as if Woodward would like to claim that Bacon wrote the King James version of the Bible, but he contents himself with saying that it is almost certain that he corrected the work of the translators and is hence responsible for the graces of language of that work of art.

Bacon did not die in 1626, as we have been told in history for three centuries. In that year he got sick of public life and wanted to retire to an incognito existence. So he took a powder that made him appear dead, had himself "buried," rose again, went to Holland and lived there under another name for ten of fifteen years.

And it was all done, all the deception in authorship, because he was the son of Queen Elizabeth by a secret marriage. He expected to be king of England, and so of course could not afford to be known as a mere writer. He therefore hired more nobodies like Shakespeare and Marlowe to father his works for him.

I have no objection if anyone wishes to believe all that. There are still people who believe that the earth is flat and that the sun is only 12 miles away from us.

The Question Box

Q. Were people who were Quakers previous to the World war compelled to fight? F. T.

A. The Selective Service Law in vogue during the World war provided exemption to "a number of a well recognized religious sect or organization, organized and existing on May 18, 1917, whose ten existing creed or principles forbid its members to participate in war in any form, and whose religious convictions are against war or participation therein."

Q. Were napkins used in the days of the ancient Greeks? G. R. E.

A. In place of napkins, small pieces of bread were used. They were then thrown on the floor for dogs to eat.

Q. What does it signify when calling cards are turned on the left upper corner? M. R.

A. When the corner of a visiting card is turned down it indicates that the caller has come in person.

Q. What was the name of the airship used by Commander Byrd in his flight over the North Pole? E. S.

A. Commander Byrd's plane was a Fokker trimotor monoplane called the Josephine Ford.

Q. Is Richard Dix the motion picture actor's real name, and where was he educated? H. D.

A. Richard Dix was educated at the St. Paul Central High School and the University of Minnesota. His real name is Ernest Carlton Erimmer.

Q. There is a sulphuric acid burn on a floor which resulted from a radio battery overturned. How can I eradicate this spot so that when floor oil is applied it will assume a natural color instead of red? C. R.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the only way to remove a sulphuric acid burn from your floor is by thorough scrubbing until all the wood burned by the acid has been removed, and then refinishing.

Q. How is Jivaro, the name of a head-hunting tribe in South America, pronounced? A. H. H.

A. It is pronounced "Hee-vah-roh."

Q. Will you please give me a formula for obtaining combinations? E. M.

A. Set down that figure which indicates the greater number, and after it a series of figures diminishing by 1, until as many are set down as the number of the few things to be taken in each combination. The beginning under the last one, set down said number of few things; then going backward set down a series diminishing by 1 until arriving under the first of the upper numbers. Multiply together all the upper numbers to form one product, and all the lower numbers to form another; divide the upper product by the lower one.

Q. On what date was the Russian Easter (Orthodox Church) celebrated in 1917? B. Z.

A. According to the Greek Church and Russian Calendar for 1917, Holy Pasch (Easter) was celebrated April 15th.

New York —(A)— Scattered notes from a ramble about Manhattan: . . . Those "exchange" restaurants where they let the patron make out their own bills. . . . They say New York is a crooked town. . . . Yet these places serve thousands of people daily, and the cashier tells me few ever try to cheat. . . . Here men are put absolutely upon their honor. . . . They may eat what they please and at the end of the meal they walk up to the cashier and announce the cost. . . . And they seldom lose. . . . The cynic says it's because most people believe that spotters are on the job.

Over to the Player club where they are getting ready for a club production of "Julius Casey." . . . And there to a game of golf pool with Joseph Kilgour, the thespian who has done his "time" many a year and oft on most every stage in this land and in many a flickering film, and with Richard Hoffman, the neurologist, who tends the nerves of most of the famous ones of stage and screen. . . . And it did seem that the bill came my way of tenner than necessary.

Just outside the club door Gramercy Park was in full blossom with children and nursemaids going about its pathways. This is the historic "most exclusive" park where you must have a key to the gate in order to enter. Skyscrapers are rising on every side now, and how the little block of parkway will hold them all if everyone on the square gets keys, as of yore, is a question.

An old man smokes a pipe on the steps of the old Roosevelt home, now a public museum, and tells tales of the great Teddy, while a dozen youngsters poke their noses into the charmed circle.

Then down to Greenwich Village where a new subway is taking toll of block after block of colorful old buildings. . . . And I stopped to watch the wreckers tearing down the old "hell hole" where Eugene O'Neill, the playwright, used to come in the days before he became famous and there mingle with the bums, the sailors and such, getting material which since has been whipped into masterpieces of the American stage.

Taking the subway back to Broadway, whom should I see but Fatty Arbuckle, come back to Broadway—hurrying to a rehearsal of a farce in which he soon will appear. . . . Well, he's directing out in Hollywood under an assumed name since that tragic San Francisco party some years back. He seems bubbling over with glee at the idea of personally facing the public again.

Also, there was Jack Sharkey strolling about with his wife and both looking most prosperous, what with the $50,000 he got for making James Maloney see stars. . . . A well tailored young man is this Sharkey.

A combination of purple golf socks with sweater to match, turned out to be Joe Turnesa, the young Italian golf expert, who thinks nothing of mixing a green tie with his already brilliant outfit.

In order to support them there must be a fabric of some kind. This is usually made of cotton, ramie, or a colloid called artificial silk.

Q. Can you tell me how to prepare a flannel cloth to be used for polishing silver? C. M.

A. In order to prepare a polishing rag, take two ounces of hairshorn powder and boil it in one pint of water. Sock small squares of damask, or the like, in the liquid and hang them up to dry, after which they will be ready for use.

KENOSHA TEACHES POLICEMEN HOW TO HANDLE FIRE ARMS

Merit System of That City Is Explained at Municipalities Meeting

Sheboygan—(AP)—The merit system under which Kenosha's police department operates with special emphasis upon "shooting straight" was explained before the annual meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities Thursday by C. M. Osborn, city manager.

Skill in marksmanship, developed through semi-monthly practices, puts "the fear of the law" in criminals, he said, and also places the force on a far more efficient basis. The plan also provides extra remuneration for special attention to duty.

Kenosha adopted the plan in December 1926 and was retroactive for the year 1926 and at the first meeting of the Merit Board in 1927, thirty-eight points of merit were earned by twenty men.

As an aid to the officers in self-improvement, the City of Kenosha has enlisted the services of the Extension Bureau of the University of Wisconsin, whereby Prof. A. G. Barry is to give a series of eight lectures on police problems. This class is to start in September and includes such subjects as the extent and cost of crime; the laws of human behavior; the kinds of criminal and types of crime; the mentally abnormal criminal; special skill needed by policemen and the detection of crime and the identification of criminals.

"By giving an award for marksmanship," Mr. Osborn said, "the men in the Department endeavor to become more proficient in the handling and use of firearms. The Police department with a reputation as dead shots will throw the fear of the law into the criminal and would-be criminal, because the criminal knows he will have less chance for his life with policemen who can shoot well than with those who cannot, and the tendency of the criminal will be to keep out of the town where the policemen shoot straight."

"By giving extra remuneration for special attention to duty or extra services performed, the officer has a tendency to put forth greater effort in the performance of his duty, and this makes a more active and wide-awake police force and furnishes better law enforcement and better protection to the public."

"The criminal of today is a highly specialized person. He usually employs up-to-date and modern methods in his work. Our records show that the average policeman at the time of his appointment has had an education or schooling equivalent to the 8th grade requirements. In other words, the average applicant for position in the Police Department has the education of a thirteen or fourteen year old person. After they become members of the Department there is little incentive for self-improvement. If we have better educated men as officers, we will get more intelligent enforcement of the law. We will better able to cope with the highly specialized criminal and will be able to give a better service to the community."

POSTOFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW STYLE SHEET CARDS

A new style of sheet cards in the No. 8 size has been announced by the postoffice department. They will be made in 40 cards to a sheet rather than 48 as in the past, and will be packed in 12,000 cards to the box as formerly.

Postmasters were instructed to dispose of all 48 sheet cards before the new style is introduced. The cards are used by advertisers who have them printed at job printers.

U. OF W. EXTENSION DIVISION CONDUCTS GRADUATES SURVEY

Reveals Students Prefer Engineering, Teaching, Stenography and Nursing

Teaching, stenography and nursing for girls and engineering for boys are the favored professions of 1,850 high school graduates of Wisconsin, who finished their work this spring, according to surveys made by the local district office of the University of Wisconsin extension division. Members of the district office surveyed graduating classes of 48 high schools in Outagamie, Waupaca, Manitowish, Kewaunee, Door, Oconto, Marinette, Brown and Florence. The classes ranged from three to one hundred and eighty-five students.

Of the 1,850 students questioned 355 intend to enter colleges and universities of Wisconsin and 129 will attend state normal schools. Out-of-state schools were selected by 91.

A total of 276 favored teaching, 219 stenography, 165 engineering and 105 nursing. The "hundreded" group were 291. Other professions listed and numbers interested were:

June And Bows!

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

The next morning when Faith took her seat beside Cherry, it was all she could do to restrain the joyful words which bubbled out of her heart, for poor, harassed little Cherry's face was as wan as a dying magnolia blossom; the golden eyes looked dead and hopeless, above their deep half moons of violet shadows.

It had been hard enough to withhold the tremendous news of Cherry's impending release and vindication from her father, poor Jim Lane, bowed down with sorrow and worry, but it was the hardest thing she had ever been called upon to do to let Cherry suffer even one minute longer than was necessary.

"But she'll be free today, today!" Faith's heart rejoiced. She bent over Cherry, took the cold little hands in hers and chafed them tenderly.

The jury had filed in, the judge had sunk wearily into his chair, and court had been declared in session when Churchill came pushing his way through the packed courtroom, closely followed by Bob Hathaway. Faith's heart almost stopped beating as she saw the grave, unsmiling faces of the men, but when Bob was in his chair directly behind her he leaned forward and whispered, "Everything's all set!"

The crowd was waiting tensely for Cherry to be ordered back into the witness chair, in which she had spent half the day before. They expected to hear from her own lips the story of her last interview with Ralph Cluny, whom she was accused of murdering.

But Churchill rose and advanced toward the judge's bench. "Your honor, before this trial proceeds, I must ask your forbearance while I bring to your attention a matter of vital importance to the defendant and to the cause of justice."

Churchill, with a triumphant smile, first at Cherry, who leaned forward with breathless interest and leaping hope in her golden eyes, then at Hathaway, who was frowning prodigiously, stepped to the judge's bench, closely followed by the district attorney.

After a few minutes of low-toned conversation, broken by a sharp exclamation of astonishment and incredulity from Hathaway, Judge Grimshaw ordered the sheriff's deputies to remove the jury.

"Court is adjourned for ten minutes," Faiths saw that no one leaves the courtroom."

He passed out of the room, followed by Hathaway and Churchill. Churchill carrying a heavy bag, which Faith guessed, contained the exhibits against Hutchinson.

Within the ten minutes the judge reentered the courtroom, the jury was summoned, and order was restored. Churchill took his place before the judge's bench again, and spoke in a loud, ringing voice.

"Your honor, I move a dismissal of defendant, Cherry Lane Wiley, and of the indictment against Christopher Wiley, charged with the murder of Ralph Cluny, on the grounds that the real murderer, Emily W. Hutchinson, has made a full confession, after having been confronted with indubitable proofs of his guilt, and with the confessions of his accomplice, Samuel Horn."

Cherry rose from her seat, then stood for a moment with her tiny hands clasped behind her, then fell at Faith's feet in a faint.

TOMORROW Cherry is free of the charge of murder but not of her marriage to Chris Wiley and its disastrous consequences.

CHILD DOES NOT KNOW FEAR UNTIL HE IS TAUGHT IT BY OTHERS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THIS IS OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON'S SECOND OF A FIFTEEN-ARTICLE SERIES ON THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF CHILD TRAINING. IN THE FIRST COMMANDMENT IS GIVEN AND EXPLAINED.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NE of the first of the ten commandments of child training is: "Thou shalt not teach him fear."

A baby is born into this world without knowing what fear means. It is not there and it will not be until it is put there.

And when we think that back of most failure, back of much ill health and unhappiness is fear in one of its forms, does it not seem preposterous that we make so little effort to prevent it? We play a child with vaccines and serums and all sorts of preventative treatment to keep his body healthy—yet we are criminally careless about allowing things to happen that make a soul-sick coward of him forever.

You ask how he can be frightened when he does not know what it means. The development of a little child's mind must necessarily be difficult of analysis at the beginning.

His first knowledge is gained by instinct, a lot of it is gained by pure mimicry, and his own sensation of any gesture he copies. Then comes a psychological word called "apperception," which translated means "to see through to." He interprets any new knowledge gained in terms of what he already knows.

He hears a crash! He screams with fear. He sees a big dog! He runs hysterically to his mother. Why did he not scream or run when he was a year or two old? Because before that time he had not observed consternation on someone's face when there was a loud noise. Because there had been no suggestion before that from other children or his parents of danger coming from a dog.

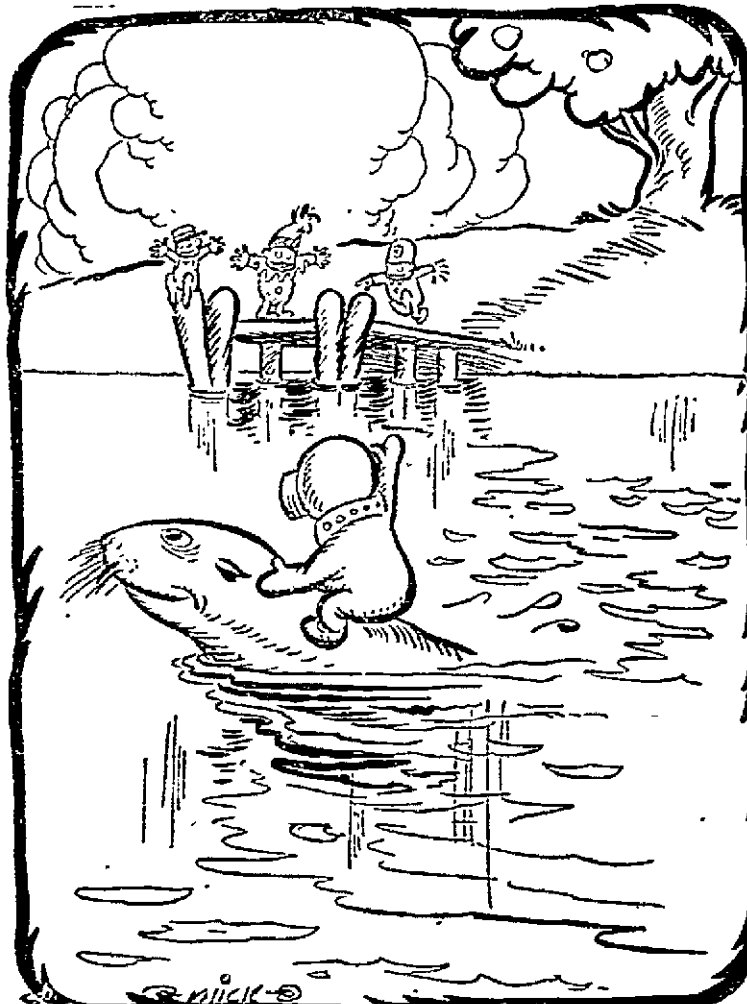

If you do not want your child to be a coward, never punish him by shutting him in a dark closet; absolutely never, never hold over his head the rag man, the policeman, a witch, or a bugaboo of any sort. Never tell him a story that has in it the elements of grotesqueness or disaster, maliciousness or crime.

Never let a child see fear on your face. Show him that fire will burn and teach him ordinary caution. But not through fear. And never let him hear you say, "I'm afraid!" as we are apt to do when we are actually afraid of nothing at all. The child's subconscious mind seizes and holds things that his conscious mind may forget.

Subconscious minds are not to be fooled with. They have a direct bearing on mental and physical health. We should watch what we put there.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE seal on which wee Scouty sat seemed quite a friendly thing, at that. He wiggled through the water, giving Scouty quite a ride. At first he traveled very slow perhaps because he seemed to know that Scouty would fall off of him if quickly he would glide.

Along the water's floor they went and quite a bit of time was spent in sneaking through queer places which were quite a treat to see. "Course Scouty much enjoyed the trip, though now and then he'd slide and slip, for hanging on a seal's back is as hard as it can be.

They came upon a bed of shells, washed into odd piles by the swells, and Scouty tried to grab a few. This was a bad mistake. He leaped too far out to one side. "Oh, my! I'm falling off," he cried. Then down he went into the shells, and heard a number bark.

around and settled closely to the ground. Wee Scouty hopped up to his feet and climbed aboard again. "I surely am a clumsy mite," thought he. "I'll bet I looked a sight." But Scouty shouldn't worry "cause we all fall, now and then.

The seal began to swim once more. He knew a long trip was in store. King Roar had made him promise he'd take Scouty up to land. Some other wondrous sights were seen, queer shining rocks and seaweed green, and Scouty sure enjoyed them, and he thought that they were grand.

All of a sudden, up they went, and 'bout a half an hour was spent in heading for the water top, and back to air once more. At last, and almost like a dream, they popped right up out of the stream, and Scouty saw the other Times, waving on the shore.

BREAKFAST—Cantaloupes, cereal cooked with dates, cream, spinach with poached eggs on toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked green beans, cottage cheese sandwiches, black cherry pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Baked fresh mackerel, new potatoes in parsley butter, lettuce greens with lemon sauce, cucumber and lettuce, oatmeal blinis, eye bread, milk, coffee.

Children under six years of age should not be served cantaloupes for breakfast. A dish of stewed fruit or glass of orange juice should be planned for them.

Black cherry pudding is truly delicious and uses the black sweet cherries to advantage.

BLACK CHERRY PUDDING
One cup milk, 1 cup cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 24 cup sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 1-2 teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon powdered cloves, 4 eggs, 1 cup sifted dried bread crumbs, 1 quart black cherries.
Heat milk and cream and beat butter. Beat yolks of eggs well with sugar, spices and lemon rind. Flower and hot milk mixture, stirring to dissolve sugar. Add crumbs and cherries with pulp removed. Mix well and fold in whites of eggs beaten and stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake on several thicknesses of paper in a pan of hot water boiling water come half way upon the dish.
Bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch, about forty minutes. Serve with slightly sweetened whipped cream.

DESSERTS TICKLE THE PALATE WHEN SERVED IN FANCY DISHES

A DESSERT may be as simple or as elaborate as one desires, but a rich dessert should never be served after a heavy meal. Desserts need not be a burden if they are prepared well in advance. If they are made early in the day or even the day before the housewives may go out shopping or may take tea with friends without worry about the dinner.

Desserts should always be served attractively in fancy dishes or platters, and when practical, a dolly should be placed underneath. Candied or maraschino cherries, nuts, and jelly, or whipped cream pressed through a pastry tube, may be used as garnishes. Hot desserts should be served hot, and the cold ones, thoroughly chilled. When desserts are molded, the mold should be first dipped into cold water. To hasten the chilling the gelatine desserts, the mold may be placed in a pan of rock salt and ice, or in ice water to which a little salt has been added.

To unmold, immerse mold to the top of the dessert in warm, hot water, then slightly loosen contents at the edge with a knife, turning the mold meanwhile from side to side, then place serving dish on top of mold, and invert, and carefully remove mold. Care must be taken to place dessert exactly in the center of dish as it cannot easily be moved forward. If a dolly is to be used, place it in exact center before unmolding the dessert.

FRUIT MERINGUE

A delightful surprise for the family on a hot day will be a combination of cake and ice cream. Take six egg whites, one teaspoon vanilla, two teaspoons vinegar, two cups sifted granulated sugar, one pint of heavy cream (whipping cream), berries, peaches or sliced pineapples.

Use perfectly fresh, large eggs; separate the whites carefully. (Will whip best if kept in cold place.) Add a pinch of salt and whip in a large bowl until stiff, then sift in sugar very gradually while continuing to whip until stiff enough to hold its shape; add vanilla and sugar.

It will require about 20 to 40 minutes altogether. Turn in a buttered spring form (one with a removable rim is best).

Bake in a very slow oven; requires about one and one-quarter hours. Meanwhile, with parsley, will appeal as a luncheon tempter.

KITCHEN TOUCHES

New holders in gay chintz coverings, new dish towels, curtains and other kitchen touches make summer easier for the housewife.

DEVILED EGGS

Old-fashioned deviled eggs, cut lengthwise and served with asparagus tips and sliced beets, make a charming salad.

FRUIT TARTS

The wary housewife will bake extra tart shells when hot days come. Filled with fresh strawberries, fresh cherries or other fruit and just heated through, they make charming desserts.

PREACH 1ST SERMON

preacher to put him through as a senior in Carleton college next year, was calm as a veteran and if he felt any misgivings he shielded them under a sunny countenance.

He called his flock into prayer, led the hymns and preached a sermon from notes without hesitation, while President and Mrs. Coolidge listened attentively and after it was all over, he received the congratulations of his distinguished guests and posed with them repeatedly for pictures.

Mrs. Coolidge joined in the singing of all the hymns, but the president remained silent. There was a hush when the singing began, but soon a rancher's wife, encouraged by Mrs. Coolidge's singing, picked up the melody in a deep, if unsteady alto and the others soon followed. While the collection plates were being passed, a young woman played bravely at the upright piano. Mr. Coolidge dropped a five dollar bill into the plate as it went along the aisle where the remainder of his party was sitting. His metal responded melodiously to the clinking of silver dollars.

President and Mrs. Coolidge expect to attend the church every Sunday and the young preacher confessed that the prospect "is an awful strain."

TOWNSKAUKAUNA DROPS
HARD HITTING GAME
TO GREEN BAY, 14 TO 7Gertz Knocked Out of Box in Second Inning of Sunday
Battle

Kaukauna—Kaukauna continued its losing streak in the Fox River Valley Baseball league by dropping a 14 to 7 contest to Green Bay at the Kaukauna park Sunday afternoon. Kaukauna batters got 14 safe blows off two Bay pitchers while the Green Sox were getting 17 off Gertz and Kilstner.

Green Bay did its scoring early, getting three markers in the first inning when Clark, Clusman and Glick came home. The Green Sox sent Schutte and Laney home in the second. Kaukauna was unable to do a thing in these two innings. Glick scored again for the Bays in the third while Phillips and Kilgas counted for the Kaws. Gertz pitched but one and two-thirds innings for the Electric City outfit before Kilstner was sent in to do the rest of the game. Six of the seventeen hits were off of Gertz in the first two innings.

Stegman scored in the Kaws half of the fourth after Green Bay had held scoreless in its half. The Green Sox went wild in the fifth and the sixth. Gertz pitched but one and two-thirds innings for the Electric City outfit before Kilstner was sent in to do the rest of the game. Six of the seventeen hits were off of Gertz in the first two innings.

BAND PLAYS CONCERT
NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Kaukauna—The first band concert authorized by the common council will be played Wednesday evening at the corner of Second and Main-ave on the south side. Music will be furnished by the Kaukauna Moose band as part of its contract with the city to play ten concerts, five on each side of the river, during the summer. Norman Gerhart, business manager for the band, said an attempt will be made to have twenty-five musicians playing at each concert.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hopfenger and family of Kimberly and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walsh of Kaukauna and son Melvin spent Sunday visiting the upper and lower falls of the Wisconsin river. P. R. Magnus and Norbert Gerend inspected the Convict ship at Green Bay Sunday. Carl Runtz returned from a two week's camping trip to Waupaca Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Poeson and son Fay visited in Green Bay Sunday afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brenner of Beaver Dam are visiting friends and relatives in Kaukauna. Alvin Kittel returned to Waukegan, Ill. Sunday evening after spending the weekend in this city. Nic Mertens was a Green Bay caller Sunday.

COUNCIL MEETING

Kaukauna—An adjourned council meeting will be held in the municipal building Tuesday evening. It is thought that the council will take Quinney-ave, Reume-ave and Main-ave action on paving part of ave. on the south side, at this meeting.

CARS COLLIDE

Kaukauna—A car owned by George Lindquist of West De Pere collided at the corner of Depot and Duquesne Sunday afternoon with a machine owned by C. C. Walgren, 2317 Sixth-ward, Keweenaw. Neither man was injured although the cars were badly smashed.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Gordon Patton.

His telephone numbers are 298 J and 10. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Patton.

WANT METOXEN-AVE
PAVED WITH AMIESITE

Kaukauna—A petition was circulated among the residents of Metoxen-ave. for the paving that street with Amiesite. This is the same material as the city council proposes to use for paving parts of Main-ave., Quinney-ave and Reume-ave. The committee circulating the petition promised that the paving would not cost more than $1.65 per foot, with five years to pay for it. Most of the home owners on the street were in favor of paving the entire length of Metoxen-ave. from Dixon-st. to Tenth-st., the committee said. They found a difficulty in getting the signatures.

Social Items

Kaukauna—A regular meeting of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the south side Forester hall. Important business is to be presented.

The Ladies Aid society of Immanuel Reformed church will entertain at an ice cream social and bazaar in the church basement Thursday afternoon and evening. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Frank Towsey, Mrs. Charles Homan, Mrs. George Arning, Mrs. Norman Gerhart and Mrs. John Gerhart.

Mrs. August Boser and Mrs. Frank Mitchell entertained sixty friends at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Berkers Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Nellie Berkers who is soon to be married to Arnold De Laet of this city. The evening was spent in playing cards and prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Graf, Mrs. Elmer Dittman, Mrs. Peter Wachendonek and Mrs. T. Lambie.

The next meeting of the Nightingale club will be held at the home of Mrs. Harriet Berkers on Tuesday evening. Cards will be played.

START BUILDING WALL

Kaukauna—Progress was made by members of the Kaukauna Post of the American Legion in building the river wall north of Oak-st on the island Sunday morning. About thirty men turned out and various tasks were assigned to groups. The men started building the wall west of the city garage.

HOLLAND WOMAN DIES
AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Special to Post-Crescent—Forest Junction—Mrs. Carl Strehne died Friday afternoon at her home in the town of Holland, three miles north of here, after an illness of several months. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 at the home, followed by services at Zion Evangelical church here at 10 o'clock with interment at the local cemetery. The local pastor, Rev. H. A. Franzke, a distant relative of the dead, assisted by the Rev. H. P. Jordan, pastor of Immanuel Evangelical church, Brillion, will conduct the service.

Mrs. Strehne, formerly Paulina Franzke, was born on March 14, 1849, in the province of Silesia, near Breslau, Germany. She was married in 1870 and three years later came to America, settling on a farm in the town of Holland, near the present town.

Twelve children were born of whom she preceded the parents in death. The husband died in 1921. The surviving children are one son, Albert.

Strict But Simple Laws
Guard Ontario Liquor

BY ROY GIBBONS

Toronto, Ont.—After nearly 11 years of Ontario is trying out another method of combating the evils of strong drink.

The voters of the province decided against a prohibition as a means of achieving real temperance. The new method is sale of all kinds of liquor in government stores under strict governmental regulations.

Sponsors of this plan claim it will do away with what they call the "evils of prohibition"—bootlegging, several kinds of crime, and widespread law violation—but that the new system, just inaugurated, will not bring back those conditions that gave impetus to the prohibition movement—the saloon, habitual drunkenness, and personal poverty because of expenditures for liquor.

YOU NEED A PERMIT

Liquor is sold in government stores only to those who have obtained permits, and permits can be revoked for any infraction of the strict yet simple regulations. So far, the sale of liquor in the Ontario province has been quite orderly, without any great rush to buy it.

The liquor is available to Americans temporarily journeying in Ontario under practically the same regulations that Canadians obtain it.

Here is the whole Ontario liquor situation as it concerns the thirsty American tourist, who has just crossed the border:

In order to get a permit, an American must "establish a residence." This residence may be his hotel room, the home of a friend or, if he is traveling by auto and camping out, his tent.

The permits, white for Ontario residents and pink for Americans, cost $2, and the kind the tourist gets—the temporary ones—are good for 30 days.

LIMIT ON PURCHASES

Armed with his permit, the tourist goes to a government liquor store.

Everything from beer to ale, through wines and champagnes up to whiskies and liquors may be bought. The maximum purchase at one time is a case of beer and a case of "hard liquor"—the latter either all of one kind or of and two daughters, Mrs. George Luckow, residing here, and Mrs. Louis H. Dunker, a bride of two days, at the death of her mother.

HOLLAND WOMAN DIES

Doris May, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ott, died of bronchitis at her home here Friday morning. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from Zion Evangelical church, with the service conducted by the Rev. H. A. Franzke.

The Appleton Post-Crescent Offers a Booklet
On How To Get Ahead.

Saving is easier than spending. This is literally true under the system of handling your money explained in the booklet, "How to Get Ahead," issued by our Washington Information Bureau.

Intelligent methods of using your money, spending it wisely and saving systematically, will assure you genuine progress to success. This does not mean scrimping, going without comforts, injuring health or sacrificing happiness. It means getting more value out of each dollar you earn by knowing more about that dollar and what can be done with it.

"How to Get Ahead" is just a 32-page booklet of interesting, useful, practical facts about handling your money, be your earnings large or small. Send for it with the coupon below.

Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith SIX CENTS in stamps or coin for a copy of the booklet "HOW TO GET AHEAD."

ESPIONAGE SYSTEM
OF WORLD IS KNOWN
SECRET TO NATIONSOperations of Spies Generally
Conceded Crime Lies in Being Caught

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—One of the most fascinating factors of international relations is the spy system.

The giveaway on the great net work of espionage maintained by the nations of the world always comes when a spy is caught redhanded. Ordinarily it works very quietly and then, every year or two, evidence of its operations comes to light and one is immediately met with the informed comment—often defensive—that all governments employ spies to gather military and other secrets from other countries.

The latest instance of this followed the British howl of virtuous indignation against Russian espionage. The British presumably found much less than they expected to find in the Arcos raid, and the assumption also is that they would have found more had they suddenly raised the flabbergasted embassy of one or more of the other great powers.

At any rate, Lloyd George, who knows a great deal about the British government as well as about other European governments, was only one of several who pointed out publicly that all governments spied upon each other and stole each other's documents.

There is no indication that our own government can lay claim to any pious freedom from such tactics. It would be asleep on its feet if it could.

You hear, in confidence, strange yarns about the international spy system as it affects the United States. Some of the stories probably are not true—but some of them probably are. There is enough evidence even on the surface to indicate that military and naval attaches in world capitals manage the clearing houses for subterranean information bought and otherwise obtained from spies. The likelihood is that they haven't anything much else to do.

It will be recalled that our own military attaché in Mexico City was recently in the limelight when important documents which had passed through his hands were obtained by the Mexican government. A splendid job of international hushing was performed and the incident seemed a turning point in relations between the two countries, but in all fairness it should be said that no official proof was ever produced to show that the attaché had done anything that wasn't open and aboveboard.

It was obvious, however, that there had been certain military espionage along the border which seems to have been practiced by both sides.

Some months ago a State Department employé was relieved of his job and it has since been understood that he was connected with a leak to the Mexican embassy here. An argument as to who started the active espionage by the two countries is not likely to get anywhere. Incidentally, there is just as punishable as buying liquor without a permit, and is dealt with severely. Permits may be cancelled if the holder gets drunk or if he tries to transfer his permit to another person.

In buying a case of 12 bottles of liquor, the tourist should remember to state whether he wants pint or quart bottles. Twelve bottles constitute a case, whether they are quarts or pints.

That, then, is the situation that meets the thirsty tourist.

It is easy to get liquor. The supply is ample, there is a range of stock wide enough to satisfy anyone, and the prices are very reasonable—for instance $4.10 for a quart of 1919 Pol Roger champagne. There is a certain amount of red tape to be unwound in making a purchase, but it is not so very bothersome.

Ontario is determined to keep its liquor situation well in hand, and woe betide anyone, native or tourist, who goes on a spree. Drunkenness is punished severely, with a mandatory jail sentence for a second offense.

GENEROUS STABBER

Kansas City, Mo.—An argument over 25 cents worth of waste paper brought on a battle between Julius Dennis, buyer, and a negro who owned the paper. The negro stabbed Dennis in the back sent him to a hospital, paid his expenses. "Got tired or arguin' 'bout a measly two bits," he explained. Dennis will not prosecute.

U. W. GLEE CLUB TO SAIL JUNE 24
Organization Will Leave Montreal for Summer Tour in Europe

Madison—(P)—Preparations are complete for the trip of the University of Wisconsin glee club to Europe and the company will sail from Montreal June 24, after giving a concert in Cleveland under the auspices of Wisconsin alumni the night before.

The club leaves here next Wednesday. Thirty-six men will make the trip.

The first European concert will be given in London followed by five other appearances in principal English cities. Concerts in Ostrand, Brussels and Germany will follow. Six concerts are given in Germany. It is hoped that the organization may go to Czechoslovakia but final arrangements have not been made. After visiting France the club will return to America the second week in August.

Students who are going, from outside the capital city, are: Charles H. Wartinbee, Walter Engke, Harold Grandenburg, Carleton Johns, LaCrosse; Malcolm Beardmore, Oakkosh; Richard Fischer, Milwaukee; Rufus Dimmick, Paul Jones, Black River Falls; Hobart Kelly, Milton Junction; Cyril Howard, Brodhead.

Lawrence Fitchett, Janesville; L. P. Divers, Fond du Lac; Robert Daniels, Wauwatosa; Alphonse McGrath, Highland; Theodore Gray, Milwaukee; Edward Oberlin, Manitowish; David H. Campbell, William Schnathorst, Moline, Ill.; Harry Schick, Slinger; David Macpherson, Little Rock, Ark.; Ben Wormell, Cambridge; Earl Brown, Cambridge; Homer Kline, Racine; Joseph Blomgren, Ellsworth; Hance Haney, Westfield; Clarence Nyhus, Chippewa Falls; Norman Spenson, Gillette; Henry Nelson, Dodgeville; Fred Jochem, Cedarburg and Levi Does, Sheboygan.

The club will be accompanied by Prof. F. E. Swinnery, conductor; George Chandler, assistant secretary to the faculty, and L. A. Machler.

STAGE AND SCREEN

APPLETON THEATRE
The stage shows headline the photoplay attractions this week at Fischer's Appleton Theatre. A gala, riotous round of laughter, syncope and dancing entitled the "Whirl of Mirth" is the feature of the programs, consisting of three changes today, Thursday and Saturday. Appleton's famous comedian, Red (Nut) Carter has been selected Master of Ceremonies and his presence alone should promise an enjoyable evening. His clever antics will be remembered as the show stoppers of a Sunday Vaudeville program a few weeks ago. The presentation also features pretty Clementine Degama, a woman whose "bustling voice and attractive figure, Fischer's own stage band offers a medley of popular jazz hits and the keynote of the entire presentation will be fast moving syncope and comedy. The feature picture starting today for three days is "The World at Her Feet" starring Florence Vidor, the orchid of the screen in a new twist of the amusing theme of the worldly woman.

"ANKLES PREFERRED"
FINE ENTERTAINMENT:
Again the beautiful Madge Bellamy scores a triumph. This time in Fox's "Ankles Preferred," and with a cast of supporting players of stellar rank.

This swiftly moving story of a very modern girl whose beautiful ankles are both her greatest liability and her biggest asset will be shown at the New Bijou today and Tuesday. The story itself is an intimate tale of silk stockings. And the cast, as above mentioned is one of the best assembled in any one film for some time.

Lawrence Gray has the principal male lead while Barry Norton and Allan Forrest are the gentlemen in the picture who prefer blondes.

J. Farrell MacDonald has the role of McGuire and those who have seen this master of facial emotions know how many chuckles he can cause. And he is at his best in this film.

GIRL IS THROWN UNDER WHEELS AS CARS COLLIDE

When an automobile driven by her father collided with another machine at the corner of N. Lawe and E. Pacific streets 120 feet Sunday afternoon, Katherine Hartzeim, 11, 1027 S. Madison-st. was thrown from the machine, a rear wheel of the car passed over her and fractured her left arm.

In addition to this the girl was injured about the arms and hands.

It was necessary for persons who witnessed the accident to lift the machine in order to extricate the girl from beneath it.

The girl's father, Frank Hartzeim, accompanied by Mrs. Hartzeim was driving his machine north on N. Lawe-st. when it collided with a car driven by Herbert Van Bostel. The latter was driving west.

The Hartzeim girl was taken into a nearby house and a doctor was called.

TABULATE BIDS ON ALICIA PARK RESTROOM

Bids for the rest room and recreation building to be erected in Alicia park this summer, will be tabulated by the public buildings and grounds committee this week. The committee will make a report at the next meeting of the common council.

QUINLANS START RETURN TRIP FROM WEST COAST

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Quinlan who left Appleton Oct. 12, 1924 for a trip through the west, are on their way home, according to word received by friends from Seattle, Wash. They left for home June 15, and will be in Appleton about the middle of July.

Religion Is Cause Of Backwardness Of India

BY REV. S. G. RUEGG

From the day of Carey to our modern time, practically all books and special mission stories have majored on India's appalling distressing need. The masses on "India's coral strand" have had a tonnage of pity showered upon them in their belatedness and the pictures drawn have been gruesome, disturbing and even heart rending. In "The Christ of the Indian Road" you have probably the first book of its kind which does not paint this backward and supposedly so, according to the author, Dr. Stanley Jones. For this, Mr. Jones is criticized, for he is pioneering along a new line and time will probably put this book in the front rank of books on India in a quarter of a century for even now it is the most widely read book in the land, the book dealers being unable to get enough copies to meet the demand.

The Christian scientists would not doubt agree that this is the rational approach to the great redemptive work, for sin, knowledge of sin even a long meditation on the forgiveness of sin have largely negative and unconstructive qualities and only righteousness, truth and love are constructive in their workings.

Mr. Jones is a Methodist pastor under special appointment of the Indian conference to work among the "intellectuals of India". When he came to this vast empire some years ago he was an old fashioned Methodist preacher a fundamentalist, his brethren say, with all the pass words of Methodism. He had common sense, that great consolidating power that marshals folks together and brings solidarity where reason often fails and it can be said to Dr. Jones credit that he has not lost this power but has brought it into captivity through long years of experience with the Indian and oriental mind. This is one reason why Mr. Jones is so popular among the vast host of men that he meets and addresses: it gives him warmth and sympathy, arresting power like a high powered machine under full control.

Mr. Jones feels the day is at hand when the intelligentsia of Hindustan must be brought into vital relationship with reality and God for the wave of atheism is striking these men who are in the front ranks of leadership and they are in danger of drifting with the tide from their old moorings to wreck others and as it has always been the intellectuals who have in the long run moulded directed and even shaped empires and he therefore feels a high calling, is before him with an open door and effectual in its true bearings on the kingdom of God and the land.

CONDITION IS APPALLING

India's condition is appalling to those of us who have never been here before. A three week journey covering 1,973 miles though utterly inadequate to understand a people, still the staggering conditions of the populace of 350,000,000, one-half of the population of the world, is enough to throw any one into a paroxysm of utter helplessness in the face of the degradation, the idolatry, and the excruciating economic conditions. Some how "The Christ of the Indian Road" kept us from hectic pessimism and vaccinated us from giving way to loud despair for a people and their future. Here the missionaries stand if we can not comprehend and yet we know how close they have to keep to the hidden reserves that always galvanize any worker in the kingdom of God.

When you think that half of the population in India live on two cents a day, per capita when you know that half of them find hunger gnaw at their vital days and nights and eat only one meal a day when you learn that 10,000,000 beggars with their outstretched hands their open mouths, their eyes sunk deep into their heads are setting the pace of a law idealism that is drawing other millions after them, you wonder at the utterly inadequate means that are at command of most of the Indian workers. Then you learn that at bottom of this condition is religion: the whole economic nerve is exposed in a helpless condition of decay and degradation and that here as in no other place in the world is demonstrated how deeply spiritual after all economic laws are. It is Hinduism that keeps the populace in subjection in which veneration for the animal kingdom majored with the caste system that reduces women with the liability of degraded women and child widows plus the continual warfare between Mohammedans and Hindus, war always being an economic waste.

The latest figures show that there are 250,000,000 horned cattle in India 75 for every 100 population and 90 per cent of these are an economic loss. There are 346,000,000 horned cattle 61 heads for every 100 people. Cows in India only average 600 pounds of milk while our cows run to 10,000 pounds a year and more. It has been ascertained that it takes $550,000,000 to just keep the cattle and over a billion dollars for all the horned animals, oxen, water buffaloes etc. This sum is larger than the budget of the Indian empire, a all larger than the total of the world's food supply.

The reader readily sees what great waste of food is here. And why? Hinduism says animal life is sacred, you must not kill it off. Wherever you go in all the cities the sacred cow and bull walk on the sidewalk. We have counted 50 animals while standing at one spot. Animal after animal is dedicated and consecrated never to be killed. We erect homes for aged, for sick in the shape of hospitals but in India homes are erected for diseased cows.

LIVESTOCK PLENTIFUL

Nor is the picture complete without the rest of the devouring tribe. You must add the long line of camels, the 2,566,000 donkeys and horses, the sheep and goats. So along the Indian Road and see the dull monotonous plains, the drought in February where thousands of cattle are roaming trying to find something to eat, add to that the enormous feathered flocks, the crows with their gorgeous grey necks, then the vultures of which we saw 18 at one carcass with wings six feet from tip to tip. Then trot out the vipers, the turkey buzzards, the min birds, the rats, the flies that carry malaria with the mosquito and you get an adequate picture of the destruction wrought by the animal kingdom. The transmigration of souls theory accounts for that Kipling's father wrote a book some years ago "The Beast and Man in India" which revealed this tenet of religion. When asked why he did not put man first in the title he said in India the beasts had the supremacy everywhere and the masses did not follow the injunction given to Adam: "Have dominion over them."

Now the leaders like Dr. Jones believe that the solution lies in the attitude of men. The British know they can never make a frontal attack on this problem. The ubiquitous grows are so numerous, a veritable pest and the only thing the British authorities could do was to offer a bonus on eggs last year and the boys brought in 100,000 of them. Riots would ensue if animals were hurt. British regard the sensibilities of the Hindus more than they do the Christian feelings. Men like Samuel Higgenbotham of the Presbyterian board in Allahabad are pioneering and shunting the kingdom of God onto the high way of health of clean living and decency. At Naiin college with 600 acres Mr. Higgenbotham is working with barren land and using fertilizer and water and making a paradise and training Indian leaders showing that the Gospel and the Plow go hand in hand. Indians care nothing for creeds or doctrines nor western methods of expressing religion in words. Our secularism is absolutely baffling and wearisome to them but they understand the leper colony at Allahabad with 500 inmates raising their own vegetables cooking their own food and they are turning to the Christ by the hundred who feeds their bodies at the hands of sympathetic and loving men. Here is the great dairy with the school to instruct them on the folly of quantity of cattle and the glory of quality. Here is the sugar factory, the machine shop, the carpenter shop with men who know how to plow into the heart of reality and here into the hearts of men come how souls and souls are closely allied where neither Fundamentalism or Modernism majors but where the Truth sets men free in a four-fold way, socially, religiously industrially and mentally. Many leaders in India feel that this will have to be the answer to the lower critics of foreign missions which is now so popular at home.

The Indian Road is widening for Christ is traveling on it not only interested of old in feeding and healing but showing the travelers "the Heavenly Father" their hearts burning within them when they discover that all along He has been the companion on the way though they knew it not.

JONES HELPED INDIA

Dr. Jones has done intellectually for India what men like Mr. Higgenbotham are doing agriculturally and both reaching the heart of men in their own way. There is a freshness and vigor about Dr. Jones preaching unlike anything we have heard in years. Can you imagine emerging from dogmatism, from the strata of mere theological statement, from the old time method of talking a text and demonstrating its inner power and beauty by mere assertion and flinging yourself into the meshes of oriental thinking and still keeping clear of it, just close enough to it to win confidence but with a positiveness of conviction and with an absolute assurance that Christ is the final answer. That is Mr. Jones. Nor is his Christian leadership asserted as such in words. The deity of Jesus is repulsive to the Mohammedan; the Hindu finds nothing in the incarnation. We have gone contrary to Jesus way of presenting himself in which he had profound respect for the inviolability of the human will and always will come with the attitude of "standing at the door" and knocking till truth and reality shall convince the individual of his majesty and reality, of the supremacy of his personality.

Mr. Jones never chooses a text in his meetings though he refers to texts. It would antagonize his audiences. More often than not a Hindu or a Brahman or Mohammedan preside at the meeting or then a high British officer. The lectures are not opened with prayer or song but an introduction is made. There is an after meeting. All these interested in asking questions are invited to stay and to move forward. Prayer is risked in places where the atmosphere is right, people always standing. This is at the close. Sometimes cards are passed which men and women are asked to take an eight weeks course of further enlightenment in Christianity and these groups often meet in colleges of schools. Then come the private interviews and the round tables in the afternoon. These are the greatest outgrowth of the whole India Road movement. Here men sit or walk as it is together. Mr. Jones told the writer that the dogmatic way had been tried, so the controversial and now he believed the day had come for the comparative way as the only way out. The Christian world will hear more about this round table plan where every one is asked not to argue their religious beliefs but tell in the best way they know how what religion of their kind has done for them. It is surprising to learn that the Hindus and Mohammedans often say to the Christians: "You have found God; we have not."

EXPLAINS UNREST

Mr. Jones believes that the great unrest in the church at home is due to a lack of clear conviction of the absolute finality of Jesus as the world's Saviour. He says is not doing anything new save that he has studied the avenues of approach to the men's lives and he has to approach Christ for them not scripturally, nor dogmatically nor any other way that would bruise their personalities but from the side of unity of mankind, the universal elements in which psychology has been such an exquisite aid.

The last night we heard Mr. Jones on "The Meaning of the Cross". It was at Christ Church Cawnpore in the special hall of the Church of England. He rooted this masterful address first in experience in fact it was all experimental because he believes the final authority of Jesus only comes from man experiencing the Challenge of Christ within. At basis of this was the unity of the universe, unity of man, with man and man with God. Jesus came to demonstrate this and the motive of the address was "he took on himself." Christ went into poverty, into the realm of disease into every human relationship. He told how at a commencement exercise the greatest applause came when one

CUT LECTURES FOR FRESHMAN WEEK

Social and Entertainment Features Will Be Emphasized More Next Fall

Lectures will not be as frequent during freshman week this year as in the fall of 1926, but social and entertainment features will be emphasized, according to Prof. R. C. Mullenix, dean of freshmen. The week's program has been planned to help acquaint the new students with the college and to enable them to gain information to facilitate future work.

Upper classes will assist a committee of the faculty in carrying out the program. Hence, on the student committee were announced several weeks ago. Men will be: Burton Behling of Oshkosh, Donald and Douglas Hyde of Appleton, Lloyd Mills of Elgin, Ill., William Verhage of Sheboygan, Lael Westberg of Marinette, George Schlatenhaus of Neenah, Carl Thompson of Appleton, Halsey Hubbard of Burlington, Alex. Hunter of Mukwonago, George Niedert of Elgin, Ill., Elmer Ott of Kaukauna, Ray Richards of Neenah, Mich., Carl Engler of Appleton, Bruce MacInnis of Milwaukee, Arthur Mueller of Waukegan, Harry Lowry of Elgin, Ill., John Walick of Green Bay, Lois Esch of Manitowish, Gould Hambrick of Marshfield, George Jacobson of Wisconsin Rapids, Robert Hipke of New Holstein, Frederick Schauer of Hartford, and Guy Salisbury of Nora Springs, Ia.

Stranger Collapses

A man who gave his name as Herbert Bailey, 47, Seaside, Wash., was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital Sunday afternoon after he collapsed in front of 112 W. Washington-st. His condition was reported improved at the hospital Monday morning.

young man led another to the platform to receive the diploma. The man led up was blind; the other man had taken on himself the purpose to read to him, shared his infirmity and the applause was great. He traced the truth of sharing the filth of humanity on the part of a doctor who took the germs of a certain disease and asked his co-workers to tabulate the result for the benefit of the world and then he died. Through this avenue of reasoning he led up to God and insisted that a real God would have to share all of humanity and enter its deepest need even death itself. God had to share and bear, and he did it in Christ, where his soul was baffled and buffeted in the dark haunted by every device of desolation praying for his enemies and dying with forgiveness on his lips. And such love cannot die it must rise victorious. Such all conquering supremacy shows an open door in the Father's house for every serious soul to enter right here and now."

Kimberly's Fox River Valley League leaders maintained their hold on the top run Sunday when they hit Refke hard in the seventh frame and aided by an error and a walk, came from behind to beat Appleton, 7-5. Errors and walks played havoc with both starting hurlers, Refke and Vanderloop, and though they allowed only a few hits, both retired, in favor of Crowe and T. Lamers. Appleton scored five runs on six hits and Kimberly made seven on eight hits.

Features of the game were the work of the two relief hurlers, neither of whom allowed a run, and the hitting of Ray Crowe, Appleton hurler, stepped into the box with the bases loaded, four runs in and one down in the seventh, and started a double play which ended the frame.

Les Smith, Kimberly's slugging outfielder, was missing from the fray, but he left a youngster named Ray, at home and he more than upheld the family's reputation for producing ball players. Ray's bat clouted two doubles and a long single two of which came with men on the sacks and produced three K-C runs. Hillman in his first appearance of the season, knocked a real homerun, but Kimberly's freak score-keeper in left field forced him to accept two bases on the hit, stopping a much-needed Appleton run. The ball went over the board, which is several feet above the rest of the fence and then hit a wire screen behind the home and rolled down the screen and board, back into the field. Brautigan got two Appleton hits, both advancing a runner two sacks on the hit and run signal.

Kimberly opened the scoring in the first frame, aided by Brockhouse's error, without which no runs would have come in. Schell walked and Marty Lamers sacrificed him to second. Ray Smith shot a long single to Hillman's territory and Brockhouse took Hillman's peg on a bound, a yard in front of Schell but right on the base path. Schell bunted and the ball popped to Appleton's catcher dropped the ball with an easy out in sight, the second of the frame. Smith advanced to second on the throw and scored a minute later on T. Lamers' triple over Priebe's head in deep center. With Lamers on second, Hillman popped to Refke and Cooke fanned.

Appleton scored five runs to take the lead in the first of the third. Hillman fanned but Brockhouse and Refke walked. Shields singled passed Thein at third filling the sacks. T. Lamers hit to Vanderloop and Hillman was nabbed at the plate for two outs and no scores in. Radtke shot a long single to left and Refke and Shields scored. Smith fumbled the ball as it rolled into his hands and T. Lamers also counted. Radtke going to second, Baez hit to Marty Lamers who batted. Schell bunted and the ball popped to Appleton's catcher dropped the ball with an easy out in sight, the second of the frame. Smith advanced to second on the throw and scored a minute later on T. Lamers' triple over Priebe's head in deep center. With Lamers on second, Hillman popped to Refke and Cooke fanned.

11 1st Division Teams Record Of Card Squads

Madison — Eleven first division teams, two of which were champions, is the composite record of the fifteen sports engaged in during the year 1925-1927 by the University of Wisconsin. Crew, an activity enjoyed alone in the middle west by Wisconsin, is not ranked, but is included in the fifteen branches of athletics supervised by Director George Little and his staff.

To coach Tom Jones, veteran track mentor, goes the honor of capturing the two titles. His first championship was won in the fall when the Badger hurlers took the B-C cross country run for the first consecutive time. Then Jones' track athletes sprung a surprise on the conference by taking up and carrying away the indoor track honors at Evanston.

MENASHA NOSES OUT OSHKOSH MEN IN 14TH

Oshkosh — Menasha defeated Oshkosh here Sunday in a fourteen inning game, 8 to 5. Three home runs by Menasha, the last one by Pitcher Powell in the fourteenth inning with two on the bases, were largely responsible for Oshkosh's defeat. Geiten, defeated hurler, hung up a new strike out record, fanning twenty-four batters in the first thirteen innings.

Brautigan's error with one down and second, Cooke flied to Shields, but Hank Thein squirted a hit off the end of his bat to score his brother.

Then came the unlucky seventh for Appleton, starting with a walk and an error. Roehrick, new shortstop, walked and Schell got on on Tornow's error. Roehrick going to second. Marty Lamers sacrificed the men along a peg and both scored on Smith's second double to left, which fell just short of Hillman's last grab. Smith scored on T. Lamers' smash over second and T. Lamers advanced a peg on L. Thein's singled past third. Cooke singled over third and the sacks were flied. H. Thein walked forcing in T. Lamers with the fourth. Here with one down Crowe relieved Refke. Hartjes hit to Crowe, who forced Thein at the plate. Last completed a double play by nailing Hartjes at first. Last replaced Brockhouse when the latter missed a single in a trick play and had failed to peg third to Tornow as Brautigan drew Lamers toward the plate by moving in that direction.

Two hits in a row failed to give Appleton a run in the seventh when poor baseball spoiled the works. After Radtke hit to Vanderloop, who flied out and went all the way to third on Brautigan's safe blow on the hit and run play. Then Brautigan was caught stealing second but Baez did not attempt to leave third in the play. With two down Priebe again tried to bunt and was an easy out, when a hit would have meant a run.

Crowe had Kimberly eating out of his hand in the eighth though Schell got on on Brautigan's error. A peg from Last to Shields caught him trying to steal second when the Appleton manager made a pretty pickup and a quick stab to the sliding runner. Appleton went out 1-2-3 in the ninth.

HOMER EPIDEMIC

FEATURES MAJORS

Babe Ruth on Heels of Record Year; Lazzeri Gets 3 in One

BY BILLY EVANS

The home run epidemic continues in the major leagues.
Babe Ruth is right on the heels of his 1921 performance when he set a world record with 59 circuit batters.

Recently in New York, Tony Lazzeri made three home runs in a game to defeat the Chicago White Sox, despite the fact that team had the same number of four-plays wallpops.

Six home runs in a game by two major league ball clubs is no longer considered an extraordinary happening.

It looks very much as if the 1000 mark total for home runs would again be passed by the two major leagues for a season's play. With the race about one-third over, considerably better than 300 homers have already been made by the various sluggers.

Delving back in the records over a period of 10 years, I find some very interesting data on the home run question.

During the season of 1918, the National League made 138 home runs, while the American League totaled only 97. Last season, the New York Yankees alone made 121 home runs, more than the entire circuit 10 years ago. A wartime ball of inferior grade was used during the 1918 campaign.

The dizziest home "un height" was reached in 1925, when the National registered 631 to 533 in the American, the amazing total of 1167 for the two circuits.

That year tended to make the home run a sort of curtailed last season, as the ball was cut back to its normal size to the extent of a drop of about 300. This year it appears to be on the increase again.

There is something in common between pennants and home runs. This was proved last season, as the two champions led their respective leagues in that respect. St. Louis in the National with 121, New York in the American with 121.

I have been asked by many fans via the mail route, air, special delivery and regular, to express my opinion on the subject. The main question is whether the modern batters are better than the old-timers or the present-day fingers less efficient.

Here are a few of the reasons as I see them for the home run epidemic now prevailing:

The ball is much livelier than the one of 10 or 20 years back.

Far more new balls are used, making for greater distance to the batting and less efficiency for the pitching.

Smaller ball parks as to playing territory prevail throughout the major league circuits, some of which make the art of swatting home runs more or less of a joke.

Not greater batters but less efficient pitching, due to the lively ball, the use of so many new balls, the elimination of trick deliveries and much smaller parks.

Some of the later baseball will come to regulation parks, making the game the same the circuits over. There is sure to be a reaction to the joke home run despite the fact that it has prospered so far.

NOTEWORTHY PERFORMANCE

Two remarkable achievements were recorded by Penn athletes in minor sports this year. Miller Moore, on the lacrosse team, scored 26 goals in 17 games, and Wesley A. Slanger, of the tennis team, played 17 college tennis matches without once suffering defeat.

APPLETON COURSE AWARDED '27 MEET OF STATE GOLFERS

President Hadfield Picks Butte des Morts Sunday After Inspection Trip

The inspection visit of Harry S. Hadfield, president of the Wisconsin State Amateur Golf association, and Billy Sixty, Milwaukee golf writer, to Appleton last Friday, has resulted in the 1927 state amateur championship tourney being awarded to the Butte des Morts Country Club. Hadfield and Sixty looked over the course and played it on their visit and immediately expressed approval of its numerous natural hazards and its well-bunkered and well-trapped holes. However, the official announcement was not made until Sunday morning. The meet is held the first week in August.

Ken Dickinson 1925 state champion, and a strong contender each year, will have a chance to repeat on his home course on which he trimmed Adolph "Buster" Beck, Sheboygan, for the 1926 Wisconsin title last year. So far, later took the state open title, beating out Frank Walsh, Butte des Morts pro.

Mr. Hadfield had never seen Butte des Morts and at the recent annual state meeting expressed a desire to go over it before officially awarding the tournament to Appleton. Incidentally, the habit many outfields have of throwing the ball into the bleachers when the game is over, for the fans to scramble after, has led to as many peculiar situations as the lack of knowledge as to how many are out.

Everything was found to be entirely satisfactory by the state chief, and to Appleton the golfers will go. In passing finally on the selection of the upstate site Mr. Hadfield was happy to find conditions what they were because the entry of Butte des Morts into the field brings the state meet into northern territory for the first time since its inception a quarter century ago.

A meet at Appleton should lend impetus to the game," Mr. Hadfield said.

Officials of the Butte des Morts club have assured Mr. Hadfield that every co-operation will be given state officials in making the 1927 tournament the biggest and best ever held.

CARDINAL FROSH BOAT ENTERS RACE

Badger Yearlings Expected to Make Good Showing in 'Keespie Event

Madison—Wisconsin's entry in the Foughtkeeps regatta, the freshman eight, left home Saturday night for the East. The Badger party numbering 16 in all, accompanied the two Washington crews on a special train which arrived at the Hudson Monday.

Although the Badger authorities were undecided as to whether they would reverse their entry and send the Varsity to the National rowing classic, Coach Vail adhered to his former decision to take the yearling boat after the dual races with Washington Saturday morning.

Both the frosh and Varsity boats have suffered setbacks during the spring in the form of losses by eligibility and unfavorable weather conditions causing continued rough water on Lake Mendota. The veteran Wisconsin rowing coach was confident before leaving Madison on Saturday.

His first year outfit would be a stronger contender in the freshman race on the Hudson, than would the Varsity in the feature event.

Vail has been centering his attention the last few weeks on the 1930 crew and should be able to bring them along in good shape with a week's training in the east prior to the races on June 29.

In addition to the eight regular freshman oarsmen and two substitutes, the Wisconsin party included Coach Harry Vail, trainer Joe Stelmayer, Dr. Conoutson, medical adviser, Commodore Davis and Business Manager Lewis.

The personnel of the Wisconsin freshman eight includes: Jerome Sperling, Carl Miller, Sarah Warren, Theodore Otjen, Warren Drouet, John Parks, Eugene Goodman, Joe Lucas, Capt. Coxswain John Ascher. Substitutes—Pat Shannon and Pierce Peters.

BRUIINS SMACK BALL HARD TO BEAT BUGS

Cubs Advance to Game from Loop Leaders in Slug Match, 14-7

Having matched the slugging of the Wagners and Harris with the wallpopping of Webb, Wilson and Stephenson, the Chicago Cubs were pressing forward more confidently Monday in their duel with the Pittsburgh Pirates for National League supremacy.

In winning the opening game of the important series, 14 to 7, Sunday, the Cubs outbatted the Pirates, 14 to 7, slugging the only home run, the elimination of trick deliveries and much smaller parks.

Some of the later baseball will come to regulation parks, making the game the same the circuits over. There is sure to be a reaction to the joke home run despite the fact that it has prospered so far.

Two remarkable achievements were recorded by Penn athletes in minor sports this year. Miller Moore, on the lacrosse team, scored 26 goals in 17 games, and Wesley A. Slanger, of the tennis team, played 17 college tennis matches without once suffering defeat.

WINNER AND VANQUISHED

HARRY COOPER, LEFT; TOMMY ARMOUR, RIGHT.

Tommy Armour, Washington pro, was crowned the new American open golf champion Friday afternoon when he beat Harry Cooper, Los Angeles pro, in the playoff of a tie for the 1927 title. Armour won by three strokes in the playoff after the pair had tied with 301 for the regular play. Armour won 75-73, taking the three-stroke lead on the last few holes. The photograph was taken immediately after Armour's sensational birdie on the 18th hole gave him a tie at 301 with Cooper for top honors.

Ancient Custom Almost Loses Games In Chicago

BY BILLY EVANS

A slight misunderstanding as to just how many are out has been the cause of many of the prize "boners" that have been pulled in the majors.

According to wire reports, Hack Wilson, who is playing such a sensational game in the outfield for the Cubs, came close to being such a victim in a recent game with New York.

Incidentally, the habit many outfields have of throwing the ball into the bleachers when the game is over, for the fans to scramble after, has led to as many peculiar situations as the lack of knowledge as to how many are out.

Since there are only three outs to an inning, it would seem no great mental strain to keep track of them, yet such trivial lapses of memory make for prize "boners."

The story about Wilson is that when he caught Lindstrom's fly, believing it was the third out that ended the game, he started to throw the ball into the bleachers as a souvenir for his followers. Their shouts of protest averted it.

It so happened that Wilson's catch of Lindstrom's fly made only the second out of the inning. Had he thrown the ball into the bleachers, believing the game was over, runners on first and third at the time would have scored.

Since Chicago was leading 6-1 at the time, such a slip on the part of Wilson would simply have added two runs to New York's total, still leaving the Giants three runs to the bad. As it was, the runner on third scored.

Wilson, by his great work in the field and at the bat, is a big favorite with the center field bleachers in Chicago. His every move is cheered and his throwing of the ball up among them any time he makes the final out of the game is a bit of reciprocity on his part for their applause.

This is a customary stunt on the part of many of the leading outfielders in the majors.

Several years ago at the White Sox Park, Left Fielder Elsh of the Chicago White Sox, did the very thing Wilson started to do. He let the ball fly into his rooster friends. Fortunately, it didn't cost the game.

In a measure the habit seems contagious with Chicago outfielders. Some years ago, "Doc" Gessler, of the Cubs, with two runners on, caught a fly ball for what he believed was the third out and chased to the club house.

By the time he could return to the field, finally realizing only two were out, because of the demonstration made by the fans, both runners scored.

I once saw "Shovel" Hodge, pitching for the Chicago White Sox, lose a ball game at Detroit by throwing the ball away without getting the consent of the umpires.

Runners were on second and third at the time. Hodge, after looking at McQuillan and Kent Greenfield went along with Farrell to Boston, it would seem his fears had been justified.

The passing of McQuillan was no great surprise. He has met with only mediocre success the past two seasons. He has been in the majors 10 years and no doubt has passed the peak of his game.

The trading of Greenfield was rather unexpected. While he has not been able to win this year, he seemed to be a pretty good prospect. He is only 23 and is in his third year in the majors. His first season he won 12 and lost 8, a great start, but since then has not been so good.

Greenfield, however, may find himself at Boston. Manager Bancroft must think so, and it would aid the Braves quite a bit were Greenfield to start pitching winning ball.

Just how much good McQuillan will do with Boston remains to be seen. Only time will tell.

Larry Benton, the pitcher secured by McGraw from the Braves, has a world of stuff but is inclined to be wild. He should win consistently for a team like the Giants.

WEST VIRGINIA TRACK HOUSE BEST IN WORLD

Morgantown, W. Va.—The West Virginia Mountaineers will soon boast of the largest field and track house in the country.

The new house will have approximately 7000 more square feet of space than the Michigan house has, and will have a seating capacity, if necessary, of 6000 people.

The new plant will include sectional basketball playing floors; an indoor track one-eighth mile in length with a 75-yard straightaway; pits for high jumping, pole vaulting; offices for coaches, and dressing rooms for all athletes.

TROJANS SHOULD HAVE STRONG TRACK SQUAD

Los Angeles, Calif.—Long should the Trojans of Southern California be a power in the collegiate track world. The Trojans, scored 23 points in the I. C. 4-A meet at Philadelphia last month, besting any team who scored any points from this year's season.

The loss will be Captain Ed House, who took fourth in the hundred. Other pointmen who return for one or more seasons include Charles Borah, Lee Barnes, who will captain the team next year; Henry Coggeshall, Jack Williams, Alex Graham and Charles Webber.

The Co-operative Wholesale Society of Great Britain now has nearly 4,000,000 members with nearly 14,000,000,000 net sales a year, while the banking department handles nearly $2,000,000,000 in business each twelve-month.

TRADING OF CRACK BATTER SURPRISES

Work of Eddie Farrell Ranked High but McGraw Needed Batterymen

BY BILLY EVANS

Trading an infielder batting around the 400 mark is decidedly unusual. That is what happened the other day when Manager John McGraw of the Giants closed a deal with the Boston Braves.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

THIS HAS HAPPENED
T. Q. CURTIS selects three girls from his big department store to come into his home as his ward for one year, because he wants to help them further ambition each one has professed. BILLY WELLS, anxious to be a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is in earnest. NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SIEGELTON lie to enjoy the old man's generosity.

Billy is secretly engaged to DAL ROMANE, nephew of Mrs. MEADOWS, and is deeply hurt when she observes he is also paying affectionate attention to Winnie.

Unknown to T. Q., the girls learn he intends to adopt one of them when the year is up, and Nyda and Winnie turn the house into a place of intrigue. Strangely involved in these intrigues are Mrs. Meadows, Dal and EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's former sweetheart.

Q's safe is robbed, and SAVYERS, the butler, throws suspicion on Billy whom he saw in the library and in the hallway at a late hour. BILLY, who is innocent, calls on CLAY CURTIS, son of T. Q., to help. Clay has disinherited himself and is living at the Wells home in a poor part of town working in a night, by day and writing music at night. Billy tells him she suspects Nyda and Eddie Banning and Clay makes Eddie confess. Nyda then tells that she and Eddie have been married not to prosecute them.

Clay proposes to Billy, telling her he has made a success with his study of music. Before she can answer him a telegram comes from Rome and the spell of her infatuation for Romane is again upon her. That night at dinner, RALPH TRUMAN, young capitalist, makes insinuations before the entire party that Romane is an accomplice of a fortune teller, NAYIR SADI, who was run out of town. This is a stab at Billy's heart and she goes to the music room to get her violin to play for the party, she hears a noise in the library and opening the door finds Winnie, a legal document in her hand. When she sees Billy, her face is suffused with anger and now.

CHAPTER LIV
Winnie did not trust herself to make another appearance in the drawing room after her scene with Billy in the library. From her room she sent Viola with a message that she was suffering from a headache. At ten o'clock the entire party, with the exception, of course, of T. Q. and Mrs. Meadows, motored to the Country Club for dancing. Dal brought Billy home at half-past one, keeping her for another fifteen minutes in his car parked before the house, as he made ardent love to her. She was so happy that she slept little, but when she did sleep, terrible dreams disturbed her rest, made her cry out with fright. Toward morning she fell into the deep sleep of exhaustion, and did not awaken until ten o'clock.

Mrs. Meadows, arranging flowers in the drawing room, told her that Winnie was ill in bed, and that she had sent word that she would not be down for luncheon. Billy spent two hours with her violin, practicing doggedly, as if she were trying to make up for all the hours she had stolen from her music.

At two o'clock Dal called for her and there were three happy hours of driving in the crisp cold air of late February. Because she was afraid of seeing anxiety in his eyes she did not tell Dal that Winnie was ill—nor claimed to be. But when she returned to the house at five, she brought with her a bunch of lilacs of the valley she had bought for Winnie at a florist's. In her happiness she was almost sorry for Winnie, had an obscure, unreasoning impulse to try again to make friends with the little blond schemer.

She was taking off her hat and coat in her own room, the door of which stood open, when she saw T. Q. Curtis home from the office earlier than usual, pass through the hall. She went to the door to call out a greeting to him, when she saw that he was knocking at Winnie's door across the hall.

"Winnie may be really sick," she murmured to herself, sorry that she had not been to see the girl before. T. Q. looked worried as he listened for a small voice bidding him to come in.

my dear," T. Q. said huskily. "I'm very glad I have made you happy this year."

"I've got a father!" Winnie burst out at him, with a spark of anger. "I don't need a father, Da—Mr. Curtis. I—oh, I can't tell you how I feel toward you!"

He passed a shaking hand over her head and looked down at the convulsed little face wonderingly, then he bent to kiss the girl's forehead, which she had turned away from him. "What were you hiding in here for?" she shrieked in a metallic voice from which all sweetness had departed. "How did you get in here? When I was asleep?" Her pale blue eyes blazed into the rolling black eyes of the maid as if she were trying to get across a message which she dared not put into words.

"Take your hands off me, white girl!" Viola's hand dropped from her mouth with astonishing abruptness. "Ain't gonna get me in Dutch with Mr. Curtis, you ain't. You told me to hide in here and listen to ever' word the old fool said—that's what she called you, Mr. Curtis—the old fool! I guess I ain't gonna get myself fired on your account, I ain't."

Winnie dropped her hold upon the maid and flung herself against T. Q.'s breast. "Don't believe her, Daddy Curtis! She's lying!"

"Who's lying?" Viola uttered a scream of animal rage. "I'll show you. Who gave me this twenty-dollar bill to hide here and listen?"

She snatched a yellow-backed bill from her apron pocket and waved it in the face of the white-faced terrified girl. "Mr. Curtis, she wanted a witness so's if you tried to get out of this she'd have the goods on you—"

"That will do, Viola. I understand," T. Q. said heavily. "Get control of yourself and go tell Mrs. Meadows and Miss Wells that I want to see them immediately in the library. Then go to your own room and stay there, without speaking to anyone, until I send for you."

"Yes, sir!" Viola backed out of the room, her eyes still rolling with terror. "Oh, what are you going to do to me, Daddy Curtis?" Winnie collapsed upon the bed, weeping and shivering with fear.

HAREFOOT CLUB WILL SHOW HERE ON DEC. 21
The Harefoot club of the University of Wisconsin will give its Appleton performance Dec. 21, 1927, according to an announcement made by the club. The male student dramatics organization will make its annual tour of its original musical comedy productions during the Christmas recess instead of during the spring recess, it was stated. The club will play in Oshkosh December 22, and will follow with appearances in Sheboygan, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., St. Louis, Mo. and Peoria, Ill. in December. January performances will include Rockford, Ill., Janesville, La Crosse and Madison.

The British Museum library is growing at the rate of 30,000 volumes a month.

Members of the chamber of commerce have agreed not to buy advertising space in cook books or other publications from outside solicitors, except when they are endorsed by the chamber endorsement committee. Letters to that effect will be sent out this week by the chamber. "The chamber does not object to solicitation by churches and other organizations but when an outside solicitor enlists the aid of a local organization, more often than not the moneys go to the outside group. This can be avoided by the merchant if he will demand the endorsement of the chamber committee."

"The chamber does not object to solicitation by churches and other organizations but when an outside solicitor enlists the aid of a local organization, more often than not the moneys go to the outside group. This can be avoided by the merchant if he will demand the endorsement of the chamber committee."

With Winnie out of the way, there is no one in Billy's path. In the next chapter, though, she makes a confession.

HAREFOOT CLUB WILL SHOW HERE ON DEC. 21
The Harefoot club of the University of Wisconsin will give its Appleton performance Dec. 21, 1927, according to an announcement made by the club. The male student dramatics organization will make its annual tour of its original musical comedy productions during the Christmas recess instead of during the spring recess, it was stated. The club will play in Oshkosh December 22, and will follow with appearances in Sheboygan, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., St. Louis, Mo. and Peoria, Ill. in December. January performances will include Rockford, Ill., Janesville, La Crosse and Madison.

The British Museum library is growing at the rate of 30,000 volumes a month.

Members of the chamber of commerce have agreed not to buy advertising space in cook books or other publications from outside solicitors, except when they are endorsed by the chamber endorsement committee. Letters to that effect will be sent out this week by the chamber. HIKER HAS LITTLE CHANCE TO WALK ON WAY TO NEW LONDON

Kindly Motorists Plentiful in Wisconsin, Says Robert Monsted

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Desiring to determine the attitude of the tourist toward the harmless wayfarer, Robert Monsted, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Monsted of this city, hiked from La Crosse, where he is a student, to this city to spend his vacation at his home.

He resolved two things: First, he would keep to the side of the road and ask no one for a ride; second he would listen intently to the sound of the motor. If it slowed down upon approaching, he would turn and give the driver a pleasant smile as an indication that he would appreciate a "lift."

At 7:45 Tuesday morning, he started out, his first destination being Madison, where he spent a few hours visiting his sister, Miss Beatrice Monsted, who is a student at the University of Wisconsin.

Before he had reached the city limits of La Crosse, he accepted his first ride. Passing through the cities of Sparta, Tomah, Hustler, Maunton he reached Madison at 7:30 Tuesday evening, having walked but five miles of the entire distance. Leaving the capital at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning, he was approached when a mile out of the city by a kindly automobile agent with whom he rode to Columbus, where he was introduced to a young bond salesman who was just starting out in a new car and into a new field of work. His destination was Appleton.

DOES LITTLE WALKING
Familiar faces greeted him in that city and he rode the rest of the way with friends. His journey was completed early Wednesday evening.

Mr. Monsted stated that in all 31 cars passed him, 12 of which were Illinois cars. Of the 10 rides he received on the entire trip not one was an out-of-state car. He spoke with pride of the fact that his own drivers were the ones that "would give a fellow a lift and a helping hand." The entire trip was made at a cost of $1.09.

"I don't know why a fellow wants to go out of the state to find natural scenery," Mr. Monsted said. "I never saw anything as wonderful as the hills and winding roads from Hustler to Tomah. Mother Nature never painted a more beautiful landscape."

NEW LONDON PERSONALS

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Miss Vivian Penney left Monday for Oshkosh where she will spend the summer session of the normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Dauterman, Miss Margaret Dauterman and Howard Eberhardt of Appleton, left Sunday morning for an extended trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N. Y. The return trip will be made through Canada and Michigan. The party expects to be gone several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rickaby spent Sunday at Sturgeon Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Reed returned to their home at Appleton in Sunday afternoon after spending a few days in the home of the former's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Huebner.

D. B. Egan motored to Wausau Sunday where he spent the weekend with his wife and daughter, who are visiting relatives in that city.

Gerhardt Ludwig and Harvey Netzel drove to Milwaukee Sunday where they met Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leggett of Detroit, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ames and children, who will visit friends in this city for a few weeks.

Kenneth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pahl, submitted to an operation for appendicitis at a local hospital Saturday.

Miss Margaret Schmidt is spending a few days with friends at Marshfield.

MRS. ELIZABETH GARROW DIES AT HOME OF SON

New London—Mrs. Elizabeth Garrow, 79, died at 6:40 Sunday afternoon at the home of her son Arnold in the town of Mukwa, after an illness of about months. She was born in Washington-co of this state. She came to New London with her parents when she was 18 years old.

Her husband preceded her in death 34 years ago. Survivors are her children: Arnold, Mukwa; Isaac, Seattle, Wash.; Alexander, New London; Mrs. Elizabeth LeClair, Tequimung, B. C.; Mrs. Mary Murray, Vancouver, B. C.; and Mrs. Rose Seigworth, town of Royalton. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Catholic church at Lebanon, and burial will be made in the church cemetery.

NEW FILLING STATION OPENS FOR BUSINESS

New London—New London's new filling station, owned and operated by Frank Rush, formerly of Appleton, was opened Saturday. The station will be open for day and night service, according to Mr. Rush.

The new structure is of the Dutch windmill style built of vitrified brick with a picturesque electrically operated windmill in red and blue, mounted appropriately near the top of the spire. The floor plan is equipped with women's and men's rest rooms, four large filling pumps, drain pits, greasing pits, and wash racks.

The new station is located at the junction of highways 54 and 26, a corner which has heretofore been dangerous due to the sheds and fences on the premises, which obstructed the view. These obstructions have been entirely cleared away.

TWO FUNERALS ARE HELD AT NEW LONDON

Services Are Conducted for Mrs. Alvira Dexter and Mrs. Cole Sloan

New London—Funeral services for Mrs. Alvira Dexter, 74, who died June 17, at the home of her son, Lyman Dexter, were conducted at the residence Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Betzer of the Lutheran church of Hortonville. Burial was at Floral hill cemetery. The pallbearers were: Arthur Cousins, John Cousins, Charles Krake, Curt Rogers, Austin Dexter, Willard Dexter, all cousins of Mrs. Dexter. Among the mourners from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Oba Blackwood and son of Elkhorn, Mr. Frank Dexter and daughter Bessie of Appleton, and Mr. and Mrs. Post, also of Appleton.

Alvira Tennant Dexter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tennant, was born in the state of Pennsylvania, Aug. 25, 1853. When she was a young woman the family moved to Liberty, where Mrs. Dexter lived until about four years ago, when she came to New London, where she remained up to the time of her death. In 1871 she was married to Herman Dexter. She is survived by two sons, Alfred Dexter of Clintonville, Mrs. Herman Borchardt and Mr. William Miller of the town of Bear Creek.

Funeral services for Mrs. Cole Sloan, who died at her home in Milwaukee Tuesday afternoon, were held at 1:30 Sunday afternoon from the residence of her sister, Mrs. Andrew Huebner, and at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church, the Rev. Virgil W. Bell conducting the services. "Lead Kindly Light" and "The Ninety and Nine" were sung by Miss Rose Edminister and the Rev. Mr. Bell. Burial was held in the Floral Hill cemetery. Members of the American Legion auxiliary and the Royal Neighbors lodge of which Mrs. Sloan was a member, attended the services at the church in a body. Members of the American legion acted as pallbearers including Ed Brown, Arthur Sweeney, Urban Gruentzel, Dr. F. S. Loss, Orin Huntley and Charles Ross.

Recollections Of Appletonians And Others

John Schlosser

By EDWARD P. HUMPHREY

While the pickings may not be quite as good here, it is almost as easy to pick up a cold in California as in Wisconsin. Sometimes friends write me and say: "If your climate in California is so wonderful, why do you have colds there?" To which I usually reply: "You can catch me!" or words to that effect. But actually, from what I see and hear, I am persuaded there is no happy land anywhere whose inhabitants are immune from colds and kindred ailments. California, North Carolina and Florida are little better in this respect than New York, Ohio and Wisconsin. Unless you are like Dr. Rodermund and don't believe in germs, it is reasonable to think that wherever you form one of a multitude of people, there is a multitude of germs. Of this grip or what-not, it is hard to wait around the atmospheric corner to "hit you, if you don't watch out."

John Stevens the Elder, used to say colds were not to be had on the north shore of Lake Superior, where he used to go a-fishing. But the north shore of Lake Superior was then and is still little better than howling wilderness. If you are willing to live by yourself in some such place far from the maddening crowd, then you needn't have colds, out if you are more gregarious in your tastes, you might as well resign yourself to the related penalties.

I find it pays to go to bed when I have a cold, so the other day when I was stretched out trying to keep from coughing, I sought distraction by thinking of former associates back in Appleton, and others who used to be in Appleton but have now found the answer to that age-long greatest human question: "If a man die, shall he live again?" For you may as well know that it is the original friends "back home" that an Appletonian thinks about at such times rather than the flimsy acquaintances picked up in any land of subsequent adoption. A day or two previously I had read in The Post-Crescent of the death of Mrs. Pauline Schlosser, and my thoughts turned to her husband, the late John Schlosser, whom I knew from my youth up and always found a most interesting man.

When I first knew him he was proprietor of a barber shop. Once when I was in his shop, perhaps for my first shave, he favored me with a dissertation upon the subject of razors, their moods and tendencies, for a razor is as temperamental as a movie queen. All sweet reasonableness some mornings, and slack on other mornings a shining example of perverse contrariness. He explained why in honing a razor the motion on the stone should be toward the edge of the razor instead of away from it, and finally in summing everything up, and as a convincing reason for humoring a razor's eccentricities, he said: "The razor is the sharpest tool on earth." Of course in general I had known the truth of this statement, but when John Schlosser put it in that aphoristic way, it made one of those impressions one never forgets. In my mind's eye at this instant, I see just how his face looked as he said it. His words, so long ago, appertained to the old-fashioned razor, but not infrequently I seem to notice inherited traits in the new generation of "safety" blades. On another occasion in the barber shop John Schlosser remarked to me about a customer with a bad case of dandruff who had just left the shop: "He should use more bay rum."

Nowadays there are a hundred remedies designed to control dandruff, and the recommendations of barbers are as many and various as the barbers themselves, but bay rum still remains as effective as any of the fancier preparations.

It was perhaps an evidence of the artistic temperament which I believe he possessed, that always after a time John Schlosser became dissatisfied with his vocation. Once a barber always a barber, was not for him. So he left the barber shop and went into the hardware business, his store one of the principal ones of its kind in town, being located at the western side of what is now the Woolworth store. The hardware business, with its multitudinous stock items, is reputed to be more difficult to learn than the drug business, and it is good evidence of John Schlosser's courage and determination that he was willing to adventure it from the door of a barber shop. After he exhausted interest in the hardware business, he entered the wood and coal business in partnership with the late E. N. Johnson.

Like others of artistic temperament, John Schlosser had as many moods and fancies as the tools of his early trade. One place where this was evidenced was at the business men's club, where among other doings, members played skat for ten cents a hundred points. With such a stake, winnings or losses at a sitting rarely exceeded half a dollar, yet if luck was coming his way John Schlosser would be blithe, debonair and gay, eyes flashing merrily and little sketches of song coming from his lips. But if Lady Luck were looking the other way, he would be sunk in dejection, his bored eyes scanning the ceiling, funeral sighs rising from his chest, and his feet beneath the table shuffling in anxious desire to bear him away from the game. Another indication of his artistic nature was his grace of movement especially with his hands. I never saw anyone shuffle and deal cards with such consummate ease, accuracy and—yes, I must use that word again, "grace." That is the only term that expresses it. When he was "sitting out" at skat, one of his favorite tricks was to take two stacks of chips of different colors, say white and red, each stack three or four inches high, place them in contact side by side, put one hand down over them, and then raise the hand, revealing a single stack twice as high, of alternate white and red chips. This would be done "without looking," and with no apparent effort, while gazing into a neighbor's card-hand. Anyone who thinks this trick is easy is advised to try it. It requires the utmost delicacy of touch and dexterity of fingers. John Schlosser was a fairly good billiard player, not a wonderful one, but he played billiards as he did cards, either brilliantly or like a dud, depending on his feelings or how the luck broke. When things were favorable he dashed gaily about the table, making his shots with scarcely an instant's deliberation, the balls apparently of their own volition, falling into easy "positions." I do not go so far as to say that the artistic temperament is especially desirable, or is an easy one to live with through fair and foul weather, but when things are coming its way, it sets more joy out of life in an hour or a day than the plodders and dullards do in a lifetime, and contributes proportionately to the joy of others.

John Schlosser was a great lover of meat—particularly beefsteak. I remember his telling me that when he went to the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893, and was quartered at the inside inn, he ate but two meals a day, breakfast and a second meal near evening. And his breakfast invariably consisted exclusively of one of those old-fashioned Chicago beefsteaks, purchasable in the gay '90's at good restaurants for $1.50.

Such a steak used to cover the whole top of a large platter, thick but not too thick, tender as young love, its edges fragrantly scorched from the charcoal, and the whole swimming in golden melted butter. Do they serve such steaks anywhere any more, I wonder? This was John Schlosser's breakfast, no potatoes, no bread, no cereal, no fruit, "no nothing" but that glorious steak. Oh, yes, coffee! And when the repast was over the only things left for the cat would be a bone and a hank of sinew! Can you think of a better breakfast to support a man till night against the stupendous physical exertion of a day's journeyings at the World's Fair? And yet in present days the spinach worshipers would have us believe that meat is poison, and that we take our lives in our hands when we eat it! If you are familiar with that classic narrative R. H. Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast," you may recall what the author says about what he and his mates lived on in California almost a hundred years ago. (Please note too in the coming quotation that at that time Eastern tourists hadn't brought colds to the Pacific coast, when for many months they carried bullock hides on their heads from a mile or two in the interior to the ocean at what is now called Laguna, fifty miles south of Los Angeles, pitching the hides over the side to the sands below, loading them in the ship's boat, rowing them out to the vessel, and then—listen:

"Twenty or thirty men down in a close hold, where we were obliged to sit down and slide about, passing hides and rowing about the great steves, tackles and dogs, singing out at the falls and seeing the ship fill up every day. The work was as hard as it could well be. There was not a moment's cessation from Monday morning till Saturday night, when we were generally beaten out, and glad to have a full night's rest, a wash and shift of clothes and a quiet Sunday.

"During all this time,—which would have startled Dr. Graham, (evidently the hard-working '30's) had their spinach-worshippers, too. E. P. we lived upon almost nothing but fresh beef: fried beefsteaks, three times a day,—morning, noon and night. At morning and night we had a quart of tea to each man; and an allowance of about a pound of hard bread a day; but our chief article of food was the beef. A mess, consisting of six men, had a large wooden kid split up with beefsteaks, cut thick and fried in fat with the grease poured over them. Round this we sat, attacking it with our jack-knives and with the appetite of young lions, and sent back an empty kid to the galley. This was done three times a day. How many pounds each man ate in a day, I will not attempt to compute. A whole bullock (we ate liver and all), lasted us but four days. Such devouring of flesh, I will venture to say, was seldom known before. What one man ate in a day, over a hearty man's allowance, would make a Russian's heart leap into his mouth. Indeed, during all the time we were upon the coast, our principal food was fresh beef, and every man had perfect health (note that, ye spinachers, E. P. H.); but this was a time of love, its edges fragrantly scorched from the charcoal, and what we should have done without meat, I cannot tell. Once or twice, when our bullocks failed and we were obliged to make a meal upon dry bread and water, it seemed like feeding upon shavings. Light and dry, feeling unloafed, and, at the same time, full, we were glad to see four quarters of a bullock, just killed, swinging from the fore-top. Whatever theories may be started by sedentary men, certainly no men could have gone through more hard work and exposure for sixteen months in more perfect health, and without ailments and failings, than our ship's crew, let them have lived upon Hygela's own baking and dressing."

Quite satisfactory, what? But you will say, men nowadays don't work like that and consequently shouldn't have such food—and doubtless in a measure you are right. Nevertheless, there is comfort in the emphatic Dr. Woods Hutchinson's unqualified statement in a recent periodical, that in this modern day and age, "out of all the welter of controversial food faddism, just two foods emerge that never did and never will hurt anyone: tomatoes and roast beef! I am quoting from memory and may not give the doctor's exact words, but am not straining his point. Thank heaven then for roast beef—and if roast beef is innocuous, then a broiled steak occasionally need not be necessarily fatal!

BIRD STEALS KEY
Columbus, Ind.—After locking the doors of the Citizens National Bank, the president placed the key on the porch of the custodian. A robin raised the string to which the key was attached and flew away. A posse was organized and the bird followed over the neighborhood until the burden became too heavy and was dropped.

Women's Hygienic Mistakes

Being ended—New way discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

BECAUSE one woman told another, and because doctors and nurses so urged, millions of women are discarding old-time sanitary ways for the new way called Kotex.

First, you discard Kotex as easily as tissue. No laundry, no embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, it enables one to wear sheerest frocks and gowns without slightest fear of embarrassment. Also deodorizes, thus ending all danger of offending.

Light in every 10 better-class women employ it. Once you use it you'll never again dare the uncertainty of old ways.

Obtain at any store simply by saying "Kotex." Box contains 12. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.
